ARMY BALLOON LANDS AS FIVE CONTINUE RACE

Gas Loss Forces Craft Down After Drift of 10 Miles.

BAGS ARE FLOATING TOWARD SEABOARD

Throng of 75,000 at Akron Witnesses Elimination Test Departures.

Municipal Airport, Akron, Ohio, July 19 (A.P.).—Blown along on a 25-mile-an-hour breezez, five balloons and their crews were floating toward the Eastern seaboard tonight in the twenty-first renewal of the national elimination balloon races. A sixth entry was forced down within an hour after the takeoff.

The six silvered bags tooff off in order, starting shortly after 5 p. m. Eastern standard time, not far from the spot where, 58 years ago, John Johnson mortgaged his cow and farm for a home-made bag and startled Akron with its first balloon ascension.

A crowd estimated at nearly 75,000 was on hand when the Army's No. 2 entry was cut loose at 5:06 p. m. Thirty-five minutes later the ship was forced to land due to loss of gas, at Brimfield, ten miles from the airport. The bag was the heaviest in the race and carried the heaviest crew. It was piloted by Lieut. Edgar N. Fogelsonger, of Fort Bragg, N. C., with Lieut. John Tarro, of Fort Sill, Okla., as aide. Neither was hurt and the ship was undamaged.

To Fill Two Places.

In taking off, the Army No. 2 was followed at about ten minute intervals by the U. S. Navy, the WJR, of Detroit, the Del-Mar-Va Civic Association, of Salisbury, Md., the Goodyear VIII, of Akron, and the Army No. 1.

But where Farmer Johnson and the Army No. 2 came to grief or early failure, the five other pilots and their aids tonight were contesting for the P. W. Litchfield Trophy and the right to represent the United States in the coming Gordon Bennett international race.

Two places are to be filled in the United States entry list, as Ward T. Van Orman, of Akron, automatically clinched the third place by virtue of his victory in the 1930 international race. Van Orman sent his balloon 562 miles before landing it at Boston last year. He was not required to enter this year's eliminations.

Cut in Distance Seen.

Veteran pilots and observers were loath to express an opinion on the outcome of the 1931 race, but after a look at the lowering skies observed that 300 miles would be a generous estimate on the distance.

Natural gas was used as lifting medium today for the first time in the national race. Previously hydrogen which has three times the lifting power was used. Observers expressed the opinion that the change may have been responsible for the sudden descent of Army No. 2, because of gas losses.

E. J. Hill, veteran balloonist and pilot of the Detroit "WJZ," said he expected the new gas to materially cut the distances.

Thunderstorms Predicted.

Gusts of wind and a few drops of Meteorological reports indicated thunderstorms, low ceiling and poor visibility lay ahead of the balloons. The storm area centered in the St. Lawrence Valley.

The Goodyear-Zeppelin entry, "Goodyear VIII," held a technical advantage as its record of 52 continuous hours in the air was the best of any of the six entries. Its pilot, Frank Trotter, said his aid, Roland Blair, won the national eliminations last year.

Goodyear pilots, who are participating in their first free balloon event, were in charge ofthe Del-Mar (Va.) Civic Association bag. They are U. P. Fureulow, pilot, and John Reiker, aid.

Lieut. T. G. W. (Tex.) Settle, who with his aid, Lieut. Wilford Bushnell, won the national races in 1929, took up the Navy bag.

One International Winner.

Pilot Hill was the only international race winner in the race. He defeated the pick of the international entries in 1927. His aid was Arthur Schlosser.

The Army's "hard luck" balloonist, Capt. Karl Axtater, piloted the No. 1 Army entry, which took off last. Capt. Axtater was considered one of the Army's foremost balloton experts during the World War, and has been experimenting with the big gas bags for many years. Although a contestant in most of the national races, his best finish was seventh. His aid was Lieut. H. H. Couch.

Lieut. Farro narrowly escaped death in 1929, when his balloon burst over Tuttle, Okla., causing him and his three companions to go over the side in parachutes.

Several Hurt in Riot At Nazi Party Session

Wesel, Germany, July 19 (A.P.).—Serious fighting developed today at a big Nazi (National Socialist party) demonstration, attended by 6,000 persons.

A heckler who had forsaken Nazi ranks for communism started the trouble. Police had considerable difficulty in quelling the disorder during the course of which several persons were injured and many were arrested.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Eliminated by England

Austin Defeats Wood; Perry Routs Shieds for 3-2 Victory; Play France in Finals.

By FRANK H. KING.

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—In one of the greatest lawn tennis upsets in years, Great Britain today swept to victory in the last two matches of the Davis Cup interzone finals against the United States, won the three-day series, three matches to two, and gained the right to challenge France, cupholder since 1927.

Frederick J. Perry conquered the New York youngster, Sydney B. Wood, 6—3, 8—10, 6—3, 6—3, to even the count at 2—2, and then, with America's tennis fate hanging on the final match, Henry W (Bunny) Austin swamped Frank Shields, of New York, in straight sets, 8—6, 6—3, 7—5.

The crowd of 8,000, mostly French, which saw the double American defeat, was jubilant, for it envisaged French chances of holding the cup would be better against the British challengers than against the United States.

The British team now will clash with France's crippled tennis warriors in the challenge round here, starting Friday.

An ovation greeted Austin's final polished volley which beat Shields. It was the end of American international tennis hopes for 1931. An end which seemed inevitable as Shields, after a magnificent opening spurt, carried the score to 5—2 against Austin, lost the set. He never looked like a winner after that. He had plenty of speed and power, but his errors cost him the match.

When it was over French fans whooped, cheered and dotted the court with hundreds of red cushions hurled from the seats. George Lott, sitting in the stands with John Van Ryn, picked up a newspaper and began to search the steamer lists for a liner home. America's 1931 invasion of Europe was over. Great Britain's revenge for Wimbledon was complete, for Shields, who withdrew from the Wimbledon singles final so his injured knee could mend, was soundly beaten, while Wood, who holds the Wimbledon title, was

13 MEN IN TUNNEL MENACED BY FLOODS

Operator of Hoist Reports Seeing Bodies of Two; Water Rising.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 19 (A.P.).—A flood of rain, sweeping down hillside streets, swirled into a 400-foot heating tunnel in which thirteen men were working here tonight, and fear was felt for their safety, despite the fact that there are airtight compartments in the tube.

The men were working in the tunnel at North Fifth street and McKinlay avenue when the heavy rain fell shortly after 6 p. m. Water flowing in small rivers down the hillside streets poured into the tunnel with a tremendous rush.

Rescue workers expressed the belief some of the workmen undoubtedly drowned, but said others may have been saved in air pockets into which water can not penetrate.

The operator of a hoist at the middle of the tunnel, which runs about a block each way from the shaft, ran his platform down to the base when he saw the street filling with water. On reaching the bottom, however, he saw the tunnel filling so rapidly he ascended. He said he saw two bodies floating in the steadily rising water.

The tunnel is being installed by the Milwaukee Electric Railway &

Fort Myer Soldier Dies in Car Wreck

Three Companions Unhurt as Auto Overturns in Fairfax County.

Corp. Abraham G. Rauch, 30 years old of troop F Third Cavalry, Fort Myer, was instantly killed yesterday when the car in which he was riding skidded and turned over on the Annandale-Pohick road near Annandale in Fairfax County, Va. At the Fort Humphreys Hospital it was said Rauch and three companions followed by another car, were on a Sunday outing. Names of his companions were not learned.

Following the accident the three other men, not injured, turned the car onto its wheels and rushed the injured man to the hospital. He was pronounced dead on arrival. Coroner C. A. Ransom of Falls Church gave a verdict of accidental death caused by fractured skull received in an automobile wreck.

The Fort Myer authorities stated last night the dead man was from Lebanon, Pa., and that they knew nothing of his death until informed by a reporter of The Post.

UNDERTOW CARRIES CHILD, 6, TO DEATH

Boy's Grip on Side of Boat Fails; Hunt for Body Is Unsuccessful.

Caught in a swift current sweeping into Fishing Creek at Chesapeake Beach yesterday afternoon, Thomas Glascock, jr., 6 years old, of 210 East Capitol street, was carried to his death in the swirling waters less than 10 feet from shore. At a late hour last night his body had not been recovered.

Thomas, in company with a playmate, Claude Harwell, 9 years old, also of the East Capitol street address, had gone to the beach on a picnic with his mother, a 2-year-old sister and Claude's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver C. Harwell.

For several hours the two boys had been wading about in the shallow water near short. Tired of just splashing about in the water, and seeking something more adventurous, Thomas suggested they grab the rear of an approaching motorboat.

As the boat drew abreast of the two children they playfully caught hold of the side. They were carried several yards down the stream into deeper water, and as they laughed and giggled over their new-found fun a sudden undercurrent pulled Thomas beneath the surface.

The occupants of the boat failed to see the boy's plight, and continued on their way. Claude ran to shore and told his parents what had happened.

Mr. Harwell, together with G. R. Clark and Eugene Boucher, both of Chesapeake Beach, hurried to the spot where Thomas was last seen. The men dived repeatedly into the water, but failed to find a trace of the child's body. They were soon joined by scores of other persons, and although the search continued until after dark, no sign of the boy was found.

Following the tragic ending of what had promised to be a pleasant day's outing, the party returned to Washington to notify the drowned boy's father, Thomas Glascock, Sr., an interior decorator, of the accident. Together with Mrs. Glascock he left immediately for the beach to await the finding of his son's body.

Mayor Sidney J. Monk and Police Captain Lambdin of Chesapeake Beach, conducted a search which continued throughout the night.

Pilot and Farm Youth Killed in Plane Crsah

Parsons, Kan., July 19 (A.P.).—Fred C. Campbell, 36, of Coffeyville, Kan., and James CcCoy, 20-year-old Parsons farm boy, were killed today when an airplane piloted by Campbell went into a tailspin and crashed from 300 feet soon after taking off at the Parsons airport.

Leap to Death From Plane Ends in Midst of Cemetery

On 25th Birthday Jamestown, N. Y., Man Hires Craft, Climbs From Seat at 1,200 Feet, Walks Wing, Hurls Self to Ground.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 19 (U.P.).—On the twenty-fifth anniversary of his birth today George Wallace, grower of dahlias, committed suicide by leaping from the wing of an airplane in which he had hired a pilot to take him for a flight.

After a plunge of 1,200 feet his body struck in the center of Lakeview Cemetery, where he probably will be buried.

Lee Clark, the pilot, said he shouted and dipped his plane in an attempt to prevent Wallace from leaping.

"He came over to Falcner Airport this afternoon and asked if I could take him up," Clark said. "I told him some other people were ahead of him. He said he would wait.

"He seemed to be acting perfectly normal, a little nervous, perhaps, as many passengers are just before their first flight. When he got in I climbed the ship sharply. At about 1,200 feet I felt a sudden jerk to the left and looked back to see what had happened. Wallace had climbed out of his seat and was walking along the wing.

"I yelled at him, but I guess he didn't hear. The next thing I knew he had jumped. I landed as quickly as possible and called police to send after his body."

Wallace was a son of Frank Wallace, supervisor of the city board of Jamestown. The father told the United Press he had no idea why his son desired to die.

REDS BATTLE COAL MINERS; 100 ARE HURT

President of U. M. W. Is Among Those Injured During Riot.

BOTTLES AND CHAIRS HURLED IN MELEE

Police Arrest Six Persons; Fight Is Climax of Old Bitterness.

Canonsburg, Pa., July 19 (A.P.).—More than 100 persons were injured, 5 so severely as to require hospital treatment, when a crowd of men, described by police as members and sympathizers of the National Miners Union, a Communist organization, invaded and broke up a meeting of the United Mine Workers of America at the Curry Baseball Field here late today.

Chairs and Bottles Thrown.

Among those hurt in 20 minutes of rioting, during which 750 persons fought wildly with chairs, bottles, stones and clubs, was P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America. Miss Mercedes Murray, 22, daughter of Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, fainted on the ground during the thick of the fighting.

The clash was the climax of weeks of bitter rivalry between the United Mine Workers and its young left-wing opponent, the National Miners Union.

Contend for Leadership.

The two organizations have been contending for leadership in the tri-state coal fields of western Pennsylvania, northwestern West Virginia and eastern Ohio, in which a strike is in progress.

State police, who arrived after comparative order had been restored, arrested six persons, including a girl. County officials said that charges of inciting to riot probably would be placed against them.

200 Hurt as Loft For Choir Caves In 20 in Portuguese West Africa May Die Through Crash.

Loanda, Portuguese West Africa, July 19 (A.P.).—Two hundred persons were injured, 20 of whom are not expected to live, in the collapse of the choir gallery during high mass in the church of Nossa Senhora de Carmo today. Eighty members of the congregation were taken to hospitals.

The collapse of the allery, which was attributed to wormeaten woodwork, threw all members of the choir down among the worshippers below, causing a panic in which a number of persons were trampled.

A fire brigade and an ambulance crew worked energetically to extricate the people, who were pinned beneath the heavy timbers of the gallery, and there were frantic scenes as those who had escaped sought relatives among the victims.

Fireworks Display Is Fatal to Expert

30,000 Persons, Including Wife, See Man Die in Beach Exhibit.

Detroit, July 19 (U.P.).—Marooned on a narrow peninsula in Lake St. Clair in the hidst of a blazing inferno of fireworks, Marvin W. Spencer, pyrotechnic expert, was burned to death in view of a crowd of 30,000 persons, including his young wife.

Spencer had been engaged to set off a fireworks exhibit at Jefferson Beach near here. The fireworks were piled on a sandbar which extended into the lake, and while thousands of gathers watched, Spencer proceeded to touch off one effect after another.

One huge skyrocket, failing to explode properly, shot into the pile of explosives with which Spencer was practically surrounded. Spencer died today in a hospital.

Test Pilot Killed In 1,000-Foot Fall

Leaps From Plane in Spin and Fails to Pull Cord of His Parachute.

Detroit, July 19 (A.P.).—Maj. Louis G. Meister, 40, of Dearborn, Mich., test pilot for the Verville Aircraft Corporation and a former Army aviator, was killed today when, apparently, he was unable to bring a new plane he was testing out of a spin.

He leaped with a parachute at an altitude of about 1,000 feet but pulled the rip cord too late to save his life. He had maneuvered the plane into a spin as part of the test. Company officials were unable to account for his failure to regain control.

Maj. Meister received his first flight training at Chanute Field, Ill. For ten years he was chief test pilot at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio.

PRINCIPLES FOR DEBT RELIEF AGREED ON AT PARIS SESSION; PARLEYS SHIFTED TO LONDON

Reich Statesmen Reach Accord With French on Problems.

DETAILS OF SCHEME YET TO BE ARRANGED

Bruening Group Withholds Pledges Demanded; Long Credits Sought.

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—France and Germany have agreed to collaborate on Germany's pressing economic problem.

That is the constructive and at the same time net result of heart to heart talks which French and German statesmen have had in Paris.

They will leave tomorrow, probably on the same train, to attned a London conference.

It was announced officially late tonight that the French delegation, consisting of Premier Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, Finance Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin, Budget Minsiter Francois Pietri and Andre Francos-Poncet, undersecretary for national economy, would leave Paris at 10 a. m. tomorrow for London.

Gravity of Crisis Seen.

There they are to resume with American and British representatives and ministers of other nations consideration of the all-weighty problem of how to save Germany from financial collapse and prevent undesirable financial and economic conditions in other countries as a repercussion of German distress.

France recognizes the gravity of the German crisis and will go to London ready to discuss financial cooperation with Germany, provided financial guarantees are assured and provided Germany will eventually, at least, declare a political truce and agree to abstain from certain political acts which France considers injurious to amicable relations.

What was deemed a hopeful feature of today's developments was voiced in a communique issue in behalf of both the French and German governments. That feature was a determination that the Paris pour parlers mark the beginning of a new and trustful collaboration between the two nations and their firm intention of bringing about conditions leading to cooperation in both political and economic fields.

German Pledges Withheld.

These efforts will be carried on, says the communique, so that confidence may be restored.

A negative part of the negotiations, as disclosed by the communique, is that financial guarantees and those measures of political appeasement which France wishes Gemany to pledge have not yet been agreed upon.

At today's meeting with the French, Chancellor Bruening, of Germany, did not find it possible to give distinct pledges to France, especially as concerns a political truce.

The Germans, through Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, issued a statement in which they said:

"The decisive point is that France and Germany have exchanged views on political questions in such a way that we can now say a new pathway has been found in Franco-German relations."

The text of the joint communique was approved at a meeting between Chancellor Bruening and Premier Laval after the official dinner given by Foreign Minister Aristide Briand.

France Promises No Aid.

Premier Laval has made no promises of financial aid to Germany. That is to be worked out in London.

Informed there were some reports the results of the conference were not considered favorable, Andre Francois-Poncet, undersecretary of state for national economy and Laval's right hand man, replied:

"What can you expect in 24 hours? We have made a tremendous step forward. These negotiations are of an entirely new character. We have tremendous political and financial problems to settle. We have already accomplished something in fact—that we have met, made a start and are determined to go on."

The Havas Agency tonight said:

"The journey of German statesmen to Paris has not brought immediate

5 Persons Drown As Boat Is Upset

Only Two Members of Picnic Party Saved in Squall in Wisconsin.

Milaukee, Wis., July 19 (A.P.).—Five or seven picnickers who overcrowded a small outboard motorboat on Summit Lake, near Antigo, drowned today when a squall hit the craft. The victims, all of Wausau, were: Two sons of Henry Mohr, between 7 and 10 years of age; Otto Baptist, Clarence Detter, 26, and Mrs. Detter.

Earl Goertz and Emil Berendt swam the short distance to shore after the boat upset.

Camille Kaul, 22, and Herman Kaul, 24, were drowned in Saturgeon Bay, near Horseshoe Bay, Wis., yesterday. Camille got beyond his depth and his brother went to his aid. Two others narrowly escaped drowning trying to save the brothers.

France and Germany "Bury the Hatchet"

Premier Laval, of France, (left) and foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany, whose conference in Paris yesterday on the German debt situation is regarded as making a new era in Franco-German relations.

Countries' Relations Now Are on New Basis; Says Curtius.

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—France and Germany have buried their hatchets and relations between the two nations have taken a new start, Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, tonight told the assembled German and French foreign correspondents.

"Without violating any proprieties or any duties of loyalty to my French colleague," the German foreign minister said, "I think I can say now, without awaiting the official communique which we will agree to later today, that the 'chequers spirit' has triumphed and Franco-German relations have been placed on a new basis.

"This includes political as well as financial questions."

The minister made this statement in meeting the press by prearrange-

MICHIGAN OIL BLAZE SPREADS; FOUR DEAD

Flames Ignite Gushing Well 500 Feet Away; Some of 14 Hurt May Die.

Mount Pleasant, Mich., July 19 (A. P.).—An oil field fire which took a toll of four lives and injured fourteen other persons late yesterday had spread tonight to a gushing well nearby, just brought in, and the estimated 2,600-barrel-a-day flow was in flames.

It was to watch the "shooting" of this well that 200 persons had gathered at the field when an oil tank exploded yesterday, showering the crowd with blazing oil. Firemen and State conservation officers battled all night long to keep the flames from the gushing well, 500 feet away, but lost their fight this morning.

There were no injuries when the well, the Struble No. 1, caught fire today. Special fire-fighting equipment was being rushed tonight from Southwestern oil fields. Firemen said the well threatened to burn as long as the oil continued to gush.

The dead in yesterday's tragedy are:

Mrs. Walter L. McClanahan, Mount Pleasant, wife of the principal owner of the well.

Mrs. E. J. Guy, 45, Mount Pleasant.

Ruby Melvin, 13, Midland County.

A. E. Gorham, 63, Mount Pleasant manufacturer.

The seriously injured are:

Walter L. McClanahan, 45, Mount Pleasant, principal owner of the well.

Marion Fugate, 38, Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. Robert C. Guy, 18, Mount Pleasant.

John Melvin, 40, Midland County.

Thomas Lamb, 28, Mount Pleasant, driller of the well.

Mrs. Thomas G. Lamb, 25, Mount Pleasant.

Hospital attendants said little hope was held for recovery of several of these victims. Eight other persons were less seriously injured.

7-POWER MEETING MARKS U. S. POLICY

Gathering Held Significant to Whole Fabric of Foreign Affairs.

(Associated Press.)

Considerations deeply intertwined with the whole fabric of American foreign policy are stirring in Washington as the statesmen of the powers gather for today's conference in London.

Plainly, in the view of President Hoover and his advisers, this particular gathering is far removed from that now familiar category of "just another conference."

The careful preparation, the distinguished caliber of the American delegates, the constant international exchanges which may almost be said to have made the transatlantic telephone famous—all of these testify to an anxious interest the like of which the Capital has not seen in years.

Primarily, the meeting of the seven powers is to consider the economic plight of Germany and her central European neighbors. Secondarily it is expected to take cognizance of certain problems related to the political peace and security of Europe.

Neither of these two subjects is at all new. But both have assumed aspects which impelled the United States to send two Cabinent officials who will sit at the counsel table in their own proper persons and according to their own high rank.

Secretaries Stimson and Mellon are fully expected here to play a decidedly important part in the proceedings.

It is said on high authority they are not to involve themselves in political problems which are purely European, but they are to give fully of their advice as to the way out of Europe's financial troubles. They are to have wide discretion.

Although the administration has

Deaths of Four in Family By Gas Veiled in Mystery

Detroit Officials, Hunting Fifth Person, Say Indications of Party Are Found; Bodies Are Discovered by Neighbor Woman.

Detroit, Jule 19 (A.P.).—A family of four was found dead from illuminating gas asphyxiation today in a home in suburban Royal Oak and Dewey Kimball, Oakland County coroner, said some features of the case indicated the four had been killed by a fifth person, who escaped.

The dead are:

Michael Komi, 45; his wife, Myrtle, and their two children, George, 12, and Dorothy, 10.

A plug in the kitchen range had been removed. Officials who investigated said the plug could not have been loosened by hand, yet no wrench was found. Investigating officials said there were indications a party had been held there and a fifth person believed to have participated was sought.

There were empty beer bottles about the house, officials said, two of them under the bed occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Komi.

The bodies were found when a neighbor woman, noting absence of activity about the house and smelling the gas, gave the alarm. Bodies o fthe two children were found fully dressed on a davenport in the parlor. There were indications they had slept there, but another bed had been occupied, giving rise to the theory that a fifth person had spent the night in the house.

Komi had been regularly employed an dthe family bore a good reputation in the community. The four bodies were discovered about noon. Coroner Kimball said all had been dead since about 9 a. m.

Stimson and Mellon in British Capital for Meeting Tonight.

PREMIER, HENDERSON CONFER ON SITUATION

Foreign Minister Confident Way Will Be Found to Aid Germany in Crisis.

(Associated Press.)

At the end of the series of conferences in Paris last night it was announced that the German and French ministers had agreed on the principles on which financial relief might be extended to the Reich and that the conferences would be resumed in London today.

Secretary Stimson, Secretary Mellon and the British foreign secretary, Arthur Henderson, left Paris during the afternoon and arrived in London last night, where preparations were already practically completed for the opening of the parleys this evening.

A wave of householders' buying struck Germany Saturday, prompted by fears of a fall in the value of the mark, and yesterday the streets and cafes were thronged with people anxious to get the news from Paris.

Germans, French Leave Today.

The German and French ministers will leave Paris today for London, probably on the same train.

Belgian newspapers yesterday generallyy condemned the overtures toward Germany and denounced the polites of the United States and Great Britain.

Chairman Stone, of the United States Farm Board, announced at Washington that he agreed with President Hoover's view that economic rehabilitation of Europe would help solve American farmers' problems.

Washington also announced that Secretary Stimson had telephoned "an optimistic view of the London conference."

Stimson and Mellon Arrive.

London, July 19 (A.P.).—Col. Henry L. Stimson and Secretary Andrew W. Mellon, ranking members of the Cabinet of the United States, arrived from Paris tonight at 11:05 and the scene of the international negotiations by means of which it is hoped to lift Germany out of its economic difficulties shifted from Paris to London.

Secretaries Stimson and Mellon will speak for America at the international conferees will include prime ministers, morrow evening and which may determine the trend of the future history of Europe and the world. The confeeres will include prime ministers, foreign ministers and finance ministers of the greatest nations of the earth.

The Secretaries were met at the station by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Hugh Gibson, American Ambassador at Brussels, and Ray Atherton, American Charge d'Affaires in London. Both Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson greeted the British prime minister, whispered a few words in his ear and were whisked away to their hotels.

MacDonald, Henderson Confer.

Prime Minister MacDonald, gray and somewhat stooped, got into a car with Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, who also had come on the train from Paris, and they were driven immediately to No. 10 Downing street, where they held a long conference on the negotiations at Paris.

Prime Minister MacDonald will report to the British cabinet tomorrow morning on what he learned from Foreign Secretary Henderson and afterward decisions will be made as to what Great Britain's stand is to be in the conference which begins tomorrow evening.

Neither of the American secretareis would comment on the situatioo or they left it at Paris or as they expected to find it here. Secretary Stimson's only words were:

"We had a good crossing. I am saying nothing political tonight—not a line."

Both were in a genial mood. Secretary Mellon was first off the train and stepped right into the arms of Prime Minister MacDonald. He tipped his hat and introduced his daughter, Mrs. Bruce, who was with him.

Both Laugh Over Whisper.

MacDonald greeted Stimson with "Hello, Mr. Stimson." The secretary then whispered something into the prime minister's ear, at which both laughed.

In a typewritten statement Foreign Secretary Henderson said he had gone to Paris a week ago fully conscious that a serious situation was developing but scarcely expecting the "rapid changes witnessed in so short a period."

Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson retired immediately after they reached their hotel.

Going Well, Says Henderson.

The preliminary negotiations reached their concluding phase at Paris toay when Secretary Henderson declared, as he caught a train for London.

"Things are going well. In fact I might say they are going remarkably well."

At the foreign office tonight the definite announcement was made that tomorrow's conference will be held. The matter has been in some doubt because of the French attitude that unless a preliminary agreement were reached at Paris they did not wish to attend.

The exact nature of the discussions to be held here remained obscure, however. It was learned authoritatively that British officials had received from Paris only a French communique, without comment from their representatives there.

Extraneous Items Banned.

It was understood here tonight that Great Britain has been committed by Secretary Henderson on one point—that the conference will be confined to a consideration of the economic crisis, particularly the German financial and economic crisis, and that all extraneous problems such as disarmament, revision of the Young plan and the like, shall be banned.

In a last-minute rearrangement today Prime Minister MacDonald changed the site of the opening of the conclave from the cabinet room at the foreign office, where all of Lord Salisbury's cabinet used to meet, to his own private room at the House of Commons. After the opening session, all other meetings will be held in the quarters of the foreign office.

Seven nations will be represented, among them for the first time at an economic conference concerning Europe since the war, the United States.

Bremen Bank to Stop Payments for Week

Berlin (Monday), July 20 (U.P.).—The Telegrafen Union News Agency reported today that the Bremen Banking House of Schroeder had suspended payments for one week. Other Bremen banking groups were attempting to consolidate, the report said.

ment, although final Franco-German discussions were not to be finished until after the dinner arranged by Aristide Briand, the French foreign minister, in honor of all the foreign delegates. A joint communique of the leaders of both nations was to be issued at the dinner.

"Moreover all were fully conscious that if the German crisis can not be relieved, repercussions will be felt most seriously even in those national economies which now are the most stable. Chancellor Bruening took occasion on his part at the close of this morning's session to thank all feelingly for their interest in the improvement of Franco-German relations and for all offering to pull together for its solution."

The German minister said he thought the excellent spirit of the exchanges of views yesterday and today augured well for the conference in London tomorrow.

"There was naturally no time during our brief visit to agree on concrete measures for solving Germany's situation," he said. "That will all be left for London. But there was deep conviction on the part of all present that all must put their shoulders to the wheel and each make a special effort to relieve Germany's crisis and thereby Europe's.

"On all sides a desire to aid was manifest."

Again referring to Franco-German relations, the German foreign minister, who clearly showed signs of strain, but, nevertheless, spoke clearly and succinctly in German, followed by a translator into French, said:

"When you receive the official communique please don't be disappointed if you do not find details. It is the new spirit in which Franco-German relations henceforth will be tackled that will count. We were not able, for instance, to bring financial discussions to a conclusion. All sides of the whole problem were discussed exhaustively, frankly and in a friendly fashion."

Curtius spoke with emotion of the quick purpose to Chancellor Bruening's radio appeal across the frontiers. He also paid tribute to the French government for its friendly reception and to the French population for its warm and amicable reception of the German statesman.

He emphasized that Chancellor Bruening was so anxious to have his radio talk followed by concrete action that he risked the inconvenience of calling off the "German Chequers," namely the visit of Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson of Great Britain to Huberuestock hunting lodge scheduled for yesterday and today and of postponing Secretary of State Stimson's visit to Berlin.

The British, as well as American statesmen, he felt certain, agreed in considering the betterment of Franco-German relations of paramount importance for the peace of the world.

DEBT PLAN BOOSTS COMMODITY PRICES

Cleric Says Altruism by Hoover Links Spiritual, Material Realms.

The "altruism of President Hoover in giving away $286,000,000 of good American money" in his debt moratorium proposal, was given credit for making a better market for 95 world commodities, by Rev. John Stapleton, minister of the Frankford Congregational Church, Philadelphia, and one of the most prominent preachers in his denomination, in a sermon yesterday at the union summer service in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

Mr. Stapleton's subject was "One Pathway to Prosperity," and he had said the way out of present conditions is not in universal sabotage or destruction, but in establishing the right relationship between the spiritual and material realms. "The cynic will say such an alliance is impossible," he said; "that for men and nations doing big things it is too idealistic. And yet in his moratorium proposal President Hoover gave the lie to just such cynicism.

"The world took a breath of new hope on June 21, because the leader of this nation made a proposition to the world that we all get together in neighborly fashion and help our one time chief enemy, Germany. The whole world responded with cooperation and acclaim. Material things were for the time given second place and kindliness, sympathy and cooperation, the clements of the Kingdom of God on earth were given a chance in first place. Then prices became firmer, and there was a better market for 95 world commodities, and all attributed to the altruism of President Hoover in giving away $286,000,000 of good American money. That is the way the world looked at it, and they were right. In truth, it was simply the law of the Kingdom of God operating."

The one pathway to prosperity, Mr. Stapleton said, is found in the declaration of Christ, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." "The dominion of things has become almost a despotism of things. We are in danger of enthroning the god of things made with hands. We are in danger of exalting an invention which does the work of 200 men as being of more value than the men it displaces. In that way lies madness and the country is in turmoil today because of it.

"The fact that men must starve because they have produced too much food, or go naked because they provided too much clothing, or sleep on benches because they have built too many houses, indicates an industrial failure fraught with gravest consequences to the state. It is a Frankenstein of materialism we have built, and it has the power to crush us utterly."

Bruening Attends Peace Church Rite

German Chancellor Hears Service Dedicated to All Nations.

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, who is a Catholic, rose early today and heard a peace mass celebrated in the Church of Notre Dame des Victories—Our Lady of Victories.

Once a month a mass for peace throughout the world is celebrated in this church.

Chancellor Bruening selected the ancient "peace" edifice on purpose, therefore, knowing that today's service was dedicated to international amity.

Erected in 1629, the church was named in honor of the victories of Louis XIII, especially the capture of La Rochelle in 1627.

The worshippers included several members of the French Chamber of Deputies and officials of the French-German Catholic Society, especially those representing young people.

Hoover Is Cheered By European News

Enjoys Complete Relaxation at Rapidan; Returns to Capital Today.

Luray, Va., July 19 (A.P.).—Cheered by favorable news from Europe, President Hoover today enjoyed complete relaxation in the rest of the usual quiet of his mountain camp. He conferred by telephone at noon with Acting Secretary Castle of the State Department on the German economic situation.

The conversation was so satisfactory he decided against returning to Washington this afternoon. Instead he will leave early tomorrow morning. Most of the guests, however, departed today.

During the day the President directed his physician, Capt. Joel T. Boone, to make inquiries about the condition of the wife of Comdr. William F. Newton, of Washington, who was injured yesterday in an automobile accident just before the President's party arrived on the scene en route to the camp.

13 MEN IN TUNNEL MENACED BY RAIN

Light Co. Electric company workers, police rescue squads, workers for the contractor building the tunnel and fire department crews were attempting to get into the shaft.

The tunnel is between eight and ten feet square. First information was that it was equipped with air-tight compartments which might have been shut off against the flood.

There is no exit from its ends, the shaft being the only means of ingress and egress.

At 8:30 p. m. (C. S. T.) nothing authoritative was known of the fate of the men trapped 25 feet under the street. The tunnel where the drama was being enacted runs about 200 feet each way from the elevator shaft.

Fire department pumpers were rushed to the shaft, but only two hoses were operating efficiently in sucking out the water. Heavier pumping devices were ordered to the scene.

The 29,411 retail stores in Florida had total net sales of $497,601,165 during 1929, census figures reveal.

WORLD LEADERS SEEK WAY TO AID GERMANY

The talents of the world's leading statesmen have been called upon to solve the financial problems of Germany. Shown here are the prominent figures in the conferences: Henry L. Stimson, Andrew W. Mellon and Hugh Gibson, of the United States; Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand, of France; Premier MacDonald and Philip Snowden, of England; Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius, of Germany; Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy; Foreign Minister Hymans, of Belgium, and Ambassador Matsudaira, of Japan.

aid to Germany as it might have done, but the German statesmen, understanding the respective difficulties of the two governments, will leave Paris without resentment, with regret which is shared by their French colleagues at not having been able to do better, but with consciousness of having eased relations between the two countries."

Confidence Held Essential.

Belief that Germany could be be helped financially by an immediate restoration of confidence and prevention of an outflow of capital was the essence of a message American Secretaries Henry L. Stimson and Andrew W. Mellon left with German statesmen before departing today for London.

It was understood that heart-to-heart talks between Chancellor Bruening, Foreign Minister Curtius, Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary o fthe Treasury Mellon took on a much bigger scope than discussion of detailed projects for relief to Germany.

The primary idea of Secretaries Stimson and Mellon, it was learned, is that above all else foreign banks should be induced not to remove capital from Germany. Their attitude was understood to be that banks generally would hesitate to invest new capital in a country while they still were under the impulse of withdrawing what already was there.

Must Get at Cause.

It was put this way:

"If there is a hole in the bottom of a tugboat, it is useless to think of saving the tugboat by pouring in new water from above. The hole simply has got to be plugged up first."

The American Secretaries were able to supplement their cordial conversation with Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of last night, which lasted well into this morning, by another talk at the conclusion of the general meeting of statesmen of various countries at the ministry of the interior today.

After the formal adjournment the delegates broke up into groups as red and white wine was passed around and Secretaries Stimson and Mellon had a window corner for frank exchange of views with the Germans.

It was understood the Americans and Germans separated with the German ministers happy in the belief that the American representatives would do all in their power to have American banks contribute their bit to the restoration of confidence in Germany by ceasing to withdraw capital.

The story of today's conference of all powers indicated that Chancellor Bruening delivered a general summary of Germany's need for financial help without, however, mentioning any particular figure as to the total amounts of credits or loan needed.

Premier Laval then called upon representatives of all other countries to express their views and began by selecting Secretary Stimson as the first speaker.

The Secretary of State indicated satisfaction, which he felt all would share, that Germany's statesmen had come to Paris, and looked forward with confidence to real achievements at the London conference. All the other delegates spoke in a similar vein.

In joining the discussion, Premier Laval used the word "precautions" as being desirable in connection with anything that might be done for Germany, his hearers getting the impression that he was alluding to guarantees, both financial and political.

Long-Term Credits Sought.

An American spokesman said that information emanating from German sources that the Americans seemed to think a short-term credit sufficient, while the Germans pleaded for long-term credits scarcely gave a complete picture of the situation.

What the Americans favor, it was pointed out, is immediate restoration of confidence in Germany, with a later working out of details as to how the new credits should be applied.

Communique Released On Paris Debt Parley

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—The following is the text of the communique issued at the close of the conferences on relief for Germany today:

"In a recent message the chancellor of the German Reich had expressed a desire to enter into direct contact with the French government with a view to seeking means to work in communion for the amelioration of relations betwen Grmany and France.

"The chief of the French government spontaneously responded that he looked with satisfaction to an interview which was rendered all the more opportune by events which have affected the economic and financial situation of Germany and by the repercussion of this on other states.

"In consequence, representatives of the two governments met in Paris July 18 and 19, 1931. They agreed in recognizing the importance of these meetings and in affirming that it was the mark of the beginning of a trusting collaboration.

"The chancellor of the Reich exposed the aspects of the crisis from which his country is suffering. Representatives of the French government, recognizing the gravity of this crisis, have declared that, under the reserve of certain financial guarantees and measures of political appeasement, the French government would be ready to discuss later the terms of financial cooperation on a basis of international collaboration.

"From now on representatives of both governments insist upon emphasizing their firm intention of creating by common effort as much as possible, the conditions favorable to effective collaboration in both the political and economic fields.

"They have agred to associate their efforts in order that credit and confidence may be restored in an atmosphere of calm and security."

Voters in Australia Defeat Wheat Pool

Sidney, New South Wales, July 19 (A.P.).—A decisive vote against formation of a compulsory wheat pool was returned by the country electoral districts of New South Wales today. Out of 20 districts voting, only five favored the pool. The vote was 9,780 against 7,277 for the pool.

A heavy majority for the pool was returned in a previous ballot last September.

German at Conference Becomes Grandfather

Paris, July 19 (A.P.).—There was one member of the German delegation to the conference with France and other powers who felt today that he had the necessary peace of mind for deliberations which he lacked yesterday.

Arising this morning, Foreign Minister Julius Curtius learned the happy news that he had become a grandfather for the first time and that his daughter and granddaughter were doing well.

"To have had this family worry on top of all the other worries yesterday really quite upset me," he said with a beaming smile.

MEETING AT LONDON SIGNIFICANT TO U. S.

made no detailed statements of its purposes at London, President Hoover himself has disclosed something of what he has in mind. In his recent public utterances he has touched on two fundamental tenets of the American foreign policy. They are these:

The United States is a great industrial nation, increasingly interested in economic stability. The United States is devoted to the cause of world peace, toward the organization of which four successive American Presidents have made notable proposals to the great powers.

Even before the beginning of the moratorium negotiations Mr. Hoover was telling his fellow-countrymen that the depression was a world problem, and that a real and lasting recovery would have to be a world recovery. During those negotiations he stated repeatedly that his concern for the world economic situation centered about the desperate plight of Germany. These statements were but freshly uttered when he decided on a full-fledged representation at the London conference.

POPE ASKS PRAYER FOR VATICAN FOES

Tone Changes From One of Reproof to That of Compassion.

Rome, July 19 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI today prayed for a miracle to "make the blindest of the blind see."

He mentioned no names, but talked at length of those who caused his "hour of tribulation" in an address celebrating the virtues of the venerable Caterina Labours.

These unnamed people were also advised by the pontiff not to speak of "that which they do not know," and not to pronounce judgement upon that of which they are ignorant.

There was, no doubt that the pontiff referred to the Fascists and it was considered significant here that his tone had changed from one of a reproving critic to that of a compassionate father. The address was interpreted as indicating he will rely on a providential change of Facism instead of drastic measures such as a severance of diplomatic relations or a denunciation of the treaties.

The more quiet tone Premier Mussolini adopted recently also contributes to the theory that the church and state controversy will be settled peacefully, if it is settled at all, or else will drag out for generations as did the previous strained relations between the Vatican and the government.

The Pope continued to play upon the theme of Fascism "blindness" throughout his address. He led up to the subject of miracles which, he said, are greatly needed "in a moment when the whole church suffers when its head suffers, which sorrows when its head sorrows, which is struck when one of its most precious parts is struck.

"The whole world knows this now," he added, "and has shown that it shares the common father's grief with universal sympathy and true filial affection."

Expressing grief for the "blow struck at the church through it youth," the pontiff launched into the need for a miracle. "The first one we should have," he said, "is that which the Bible places first in enumerating the miracles of our Lord—a miracle that the blind may see, and that those may see who do no hear, do not understand and do not comprehend. This is a word of great compassion, because perhaps no one has taught them that of which they are ignorant. Perhaps they are not like us in having the opportunity of knowing, studying and appreciating the truth that we know.

"Therefore, there should be impressed upon them the moral necessity of not speaking of that of which they do not know, and not pronouncing judgment on that of which they are ignorant."

Dwelling on the greatness of the restoration of sight to the blind man by Christ, the pontiff said the miracle he prayed for is a particularly great one. "It is that the blind who do not wish to see may see, the blind afflicted, if one may say so, by the most blind of blindness. To see would be difficult, even impossible, for them, but it is always possible for the omnipotence of divine goodness to make them see. This we ought to ask in faith; this we ought to obtain; that those may see who do not see and those may see who do not wish to see."

HEARING SET TODAY ON 2-POWER PACT

Austro-German Customs to Be Presented Before Fifteen Judges.

The Hague, July 19 (A.P.).—In the vast quiet of the peace palace here fifteen black-robed judges tomorrow will hear one of the most important cases the World Court has been asked to decide in its nearly ten years.

Oral arguments on the proposed Austro-German customs union are scheduled to start before the permanent Court of International Justice.

Written briefs already have been filed and at least three nations will present oral arguments. The court has until the September meeting of the League of Nations assembly to make its decision.

For France, which vigorously opposes the pact, Jules Basdevant, professor of law in Paris, is agent and Paul Boncour, deputy and foreign minister, is counsel.

Dr. Viktor Bruns, professor of law at the University of Berlin, will state Germany's case. Dr. Erich Kaufmann, professor of law at the universities of Bonn and Berlin, will speak for Austria.

Italy and Czechoslovakia have filed written briefs and may present written arguments. Court procedure, broadly speaking, resembles that of any high American court.

Cases are referred to it by the League of Nations. The president of the court, corresponding to a chief justice, is the Japanese representative, Mineitciro Adatci.

The court has two official languages, English and French, and briefs must be supplied in each. Actually sessions are held in the great chamber in the Palace of Peace.

American Princess to Seek Alimony 22 Years Overdue

Former Chorus Girl Wed to French Nobility Scion in 1906.

PRINCESS DE BROGLIE.

Paris, July 19 (U.P.).—Princess Estelle de Broglie, the former Estelle Delores Alexander of San Francisco, who boasts that her limbs are still the prettiest in all French nobility, plans to file suit to recover alimony of $60 a month, now 22 years overdue.

The princess is eager to return to Broadway, where she began her career as a chorus girl some 30 years ago.

She had become famous as a concert singer when she married Prince Robert de Broglie in Chicago in 1906. The prince's family objected to the match and the princess continued her career until 1909, when she obtained a divorce in Paris on grounds of desertion.

The romance and divorce of Prince and Princess de Broglie was a sensation in Eurcpean and American society. The princess was awarded alimony of $60 a month but claims it was not paid.

Princess Estelle applied for reinstatement of citizenship in 1929 when she returned to the United States after a long residence abroad. She intends to renew the claim, she said today.

Princess Estelle is the daughter-in-law of Princess Amedee Charlotte Constance de Broglie, 73, who married Prince Louis Ferdinand d'Orleans Bourbon, 41, at a London registry office last September.

Prince Louis is a cousin of the former king of Spain. The couple found they could not be married in Spain, France or Italy, due to efforts to block the match on the grounds that the princess was incapable of managing her own affairs, and that there was too great disparity between their ages.

COMMERCIAL VICE DECLARED AT PEAK

Stock Market Crash Blamed as Immorality Gains in New York.

New York, July 19 (U.P.).—Semi-official investigations of the New York "girl market" disclosed tonight that commercialized vice in the metropolitan area is greater in volume and more brazenly open than at any time in the last fifteen years.

With the decline of stock market trading has come a boom traffic in the human commodities of various vice rings, which, according to tonight's revelations, now operate through taxi-dance halls, night clubs and speakeasies, taking in new recruits by the thousands from the ranks of unemployed women.

Most sensational and comprehensive of the various vice disclosures came from the unofficial "committee of fourteen," which for more than 25 years has devoted itself to investigating and exposing vice conditions in Manhattan.

Plan License Check.

With completion of the "committeo's" annual report, word came from the investigators of alleged graft in all departments of New York's city government that inquiries into the police department and licensing bureau had been broadened to include a survey of the dance hall situation. These inquiries are intended to discover whether dance halls supposedly "suppressed" by the police have been reopened and why taxi-dance palaces are allowed to continue operation close to public schools.

Simultaneously Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney summoned the proprietors of 400 night clubs to meet with him Monday afternoon for an examination of their licenses. Mulrooney said he would warn all proprietors that their licenses, now issued by the police department instead of by the Licensing Bureau, would be revoked if they were found to harbor guests of shady character.

The report by the "committee of fourteen" covers all of 1930 and makes some observations on the trend of vice in the first six months of 1931. It warns girls from "out in the country" against coming to New York to seek employment as a dance hall or night club hostess.

Worse Conditions Foreseen.

"Girls who elect to choose the profession of dance hostess are subjected to a hardening process," the report says. "Their first shock doubtless comes in the realization that dancing is not the primary requirement of most of the halls."

Other highlights of the "committee's" report:

"It is probable that the conditions of organized crime and vice (now the worst in 15 years) will get worse before they improve."

"Conditions of depravity in the sordid moral atmosphere of night clubs and dance halls rival anything existing in New York for a score of years."

"A certain type of 'employment' agency has developed to meet the demand for women."

The "committee" blames unemployment and the "mushroom growth of speakeasies" for present conditions.

FALL BREAKS DRIVE TO PRISON AT HOME

Rests at Ranch on Trip to Santa Fe, Tired by Long Journey.

Three Rivers, N. Mex., July 19 (A.P.).—Headed toward the New Mexico State Penitentiary at Santa Fe to begin serving a sentence of a year and a day for accepting a bribe, Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, rested today at his Tres Rios Ranch near here.

After a trip in an ambulance from his El Paso, Tex., home, Fall arrived at the ranch late last night accompanied by his physician, Dr. J. H. Gambrell, who deemed it advisable for him to rest before proceeding to the prison.

Dr. Gambrell said Fall stood the 125-mile trip fairly well, but was very tired and weak and in need of the quiet of the ranch. The physician disclosed he recommended the sudden departure from El Paso yesterday because of Fall's agitation over the presence of photographers at his Texas home.

The Tres Rios Ranch lies at the foot of the Sierra Blanca Range, some peaks of which rise to an altitude of 9,000 feet. Situated about 200 miles south of Santa Fe it frequently has been used by the former Secretary of the Interior to rest when the pressure of business or politics became heavy.

Mrs. Fall and her granddaughter, Martha Fall, also accompanied Fall to the ranch, the former riding in an automobile and the latter in an ambulance.

Dr. Gambrell said Mrs. Fall would continue the journey to Santa Fe, but probably no other member of the family would go.

Dr. Gambrell said he was pleased with the way Fall bore up under the strain of the drive from El Paso. He said he felt the next leg to Santa Fe would be no great hazard to Fall, especially if it were broken at night at some town between the ranch and Santa Fe, although that would be governed by Fall's condition and in all probability they would merely pause beside the road to allow Fall to get an hour's sleep.

Fall slept late this morning after arriving at the ranch about 10:30 o'clock last night. He retired about midnight, as is his custom.

Man Injured as Auto Is Forced Into Ditch

Sideswiped by a hit and run driver near T. B., Md., an automobile operated by George White, 60 years old, 618 B street southwest, was forced into a ditch yesterday afternoon. White received lacerations for which he received treatment in Casualty Hospital.

A woman, believed by police to have been in the same accident, was treated at Gallinger Hospital for a possible fracture of the arm. She was booked later at the Ninth Precinct on charges of being drunk and disorderly but remained at the hospital for further treatment. Her name was given as Mary Doe.

Former Slave Is 104; Cooked in Civil War

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 19.—Martha Dorsey, colored, aged 104, who was a slave in the Judge Edwin Duncan family here, has just celebrated her birthday at her home at Parkersburg. She has lived in the same house 60 years. Her husband, Thomas H. Dorsey, died there years ago.

She remembers cooking meals for Confederate soldiers in the Civil War. She did their cooking under compulsion. Her stepmother, Millie Grant, lived to be more than 102 years old.

Driller of Water Well Wins Bet With State

Lebanon, Ohio, July 19 (U.P.).—A R. Posey, Cincinnati, well driller, has won his gamble with the State of Ohio and is richer by about $1,500. Posey had submitted bids for drilling wells on a State farm, near here, but they had been rejected because it was claimed they were too high. Successful contractors had drilled four times to depths of 140 feet and had found no water.

When Posey offered to gamble that if he failed to produce a well giving 50 gallons of water a minute he would ask no pay, he was given a chance. He picked his own location and drilled for two weeks, at the end of which time he struck water at a depth of 137 feet. The well yielded 400 gallons a minute for 60 hours.

Dawes to Confer Here On Debts With Hoover

Kansas City, Mo., July 19 (U.P.).—A "flying kitchenette" airplane, complete even to the ice box and compact electric stove, now is being flown on a tour of the West by the Stinson Aircraft Co., of Detroit.

The ship is an eight-passenger model, equipped with lounge chairs, dressing rooms and a small kitchen. Furnishings include a bridge table, individual headsets for radio reception, desks and small tables for buffet luncheons. It is piloted by O. H. Pinaire, chief test pilot, and experimental engineer for the Stinson Co.

Oil Boom Proved Aid To Merchants in Texas

Dallas, Tex., July 19 (U.P.).—Among other advantages—the East Texas oil boom was attributed here as having aided Dallas dry goods merchants in withstanding what otherwise might have been a dull business year.

It was estimated wholesale dry goods merchants' business showed an increase of from 20 to 25 per cent since the discovery of the prolific East Texas field was made.

'Snake Driver' Blamed For Many Car Crashes

Harrisburg, Pa., July 19 (U.P.).—The "snake driver" was held responsible by Benjamin Eynon, State registrar of motor vehicles, for 235 motor accidents, three of them fatal, within a single month, in Pennsylvania.

Eynon characterized as a "snake driver," the mortorist who weaves in and out of a line of traffic regardless of the safety of others on the highway.

RELIEF CONSIDERED AFTER FOOD MARCH

Gov. Murray Says That Something Will Be Done to Help Jobless.

Henryetta, Okla., July 19 (A.P.).—State and city officials today considered relief plans for destitute unemployed persons of Henryetta who yesterday paraded into the business district and asked and obtained food from local merchants.

Yesterday's hunger march was directed by a committee appointed several months ago by the unemployed. Carrying an American Flag, approximately 500 persons marched from the City Hall with their request for aid. Charles Holmes, a county preacher, prayed for God's guidance before the delegation left the City Hall.

A check today showed that food was distributed after the parade to 196 families, totaling 950 persons.

Henryetta was quiet today. The crowd dispersed in orderly fashion after the distribution of food by the enemployed committee.

Business men of this coal mining community this afternoon met and considered ways of providing work for those without employment.

George Riley Hall, Henryetta editor and civic leader, said food distribution was largely a matter of charity. When work is provided not more than 50 men will accept jobs, he predicted.

At Oklahoma City, Gov. W. H. Murray prepared for conferences tomorrow between other State officials and representative leaders from Henryetta.

"These people are hungry and something must be done and will be done," said the governor. He explained that an idle brain "is the devil's workshop," and that jobs as well as food must be found for the demonstrators.

The governor said he did not know exactly how money for relief of the situation would be obtained.

A general shut-down of coal mines, together with an agricultural and general economic depression, has resulted in widespread want and suffering in the Henryetta district.

District Red Cross officials at St. Louis, who earlier in the year directed unemployed relief action here, last night said no plans had been made for additional aid.

Railroad Has Shower Baths for Locomotives

New Haven, Conn., July 19 (U.P.).—Shower baths for locomotives are now provided by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

An automatic locomotive washer, installed at the entrance track to Cedar Hill Engine House, sprays the locomotive with a hot cleaning solution at close range under 100 pounds' pressure, each bath requiring only 40 seconds.

WEEK'S TRADE AIDED BY BUYING INCREASE

Volume of Business Stands Despite Summer Season and Crisis in Europe.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—While the business outlook has been largely obscured by the week's financial crisis in Europe, actual volume of trade has been well maintained.

Retail trade has in past week tended to resist the enervating influences of midsummer, and most reports indicated that the volume equals that of a year ago. The shoe and textile industries continue to give a good account of cotton fabrics.

There comes a time in periods of depression when the purchasing of essential consumers goods, such as shoes and wearing apparel, can not be longer deferred. A normal working of economic forces would suggest that buying of these essentials would represent the beginnings of a sequence of stimuli gradually working through the entire economic structure.

Deflation Regulates Upturn.

The progress of improvement naturally depends upon how thoroughly the job of deflation has been done. In point of time, certainly, the deflation has run far enough, if past experience may be used as a guide.

Moody's service expresses a view widely held in important financial and industrial quarters when it says, "so far as the United States is concerned * * * a recovery could start almost any week now, provided there were no serious obstacles in the way of completely restoring confidence." This service believes that a recovery sustained for a year would bring us back to normal.

Restoration of confidence progressed by leaps and bounds on announcement of President Hoover's war debt plan, but has lost much of its progress since it became apparent that the plan was too late to save central Europe from a serious crisis. Thus far, the European crisis has probably caused more confusion than discouragement in this country. Its ultimate effects upon business confidence may be expected to depend upon its duration.

America's Foreign Trade.

Our foreign trade has already fallen back to the levels of 1914, and it has become the habit in recent months to plan for domestic recovery without much help of foreign markets. Such products as cotton and copper, however, might remain long depressed by any protracted state of economic chaos in Central Europe.

The impairment of confidence by the turn taken by European affairs has been reflected in a fresh decline in commodity prices, the sharpest since stability began to appear early in June. Foodstuffs have been most prominent in the downturn, with nonferrous metals and chemicals conspicuous. Hides and leather, on the other hand, have shown further strength, and the wool market has been well sustained, with textile prices generally holding up well.

Wheat has remained one of the sore spots of the commodities. July wheat broke to a new low in the history of the Chicago market last week, coming within a fraction of a half dollar a bushel. The prospect that the low price may finally result in a sharp curtailment of planting seems to be about the only hopeful aspect of the situation.

Electrical Power Report.

One of the most pleasing statistical exhibits of the week was the report of electric power consumption for the week ended July 11, showing a gain of 3-10 of 1 per cent over the like week of last year. This is the first time this year that these reports have shown a gain over 1930.

A factor to be considered, however, is that the report includes figures which are for the preceding week in each year was the Fourth of July week. Last year the holiday came on Friday, so plants shutdown for a three-day week-end, while it came on Saturday this year, making two-day shut down.

Freight car loadings, as reported for the week-end, July 4, showed somewhat less than the expected decline for the holiday week.

BONDS STRENGTHEN ON FOREIGN REPORTS

German Issues Recover Part of Earlier Losses; Rails Slightly Lower.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—As in other financial markets, trading in bonds was dominated last week largely by the financial situation in Germany.

Sharp gains in foreign issues toward the close of the week were not sufficient to wipe out all the losses scored in the first few days when the uncertainties of the situation exerted their greatest influence. This concern, which did not disappear by the end of the period, was at least pressing them.

Aside from political considerations and the lack of unanimity of the banking community on the best means of aiding Germany, conditions of the bond market alone were such as to make any loan necessitating a public offering unlikely. There is general agreement that one of the complications in the situation is the large volume of outstanding German credits.

German obligations, of course, reflected the pressure more than others. The 5½s of 1965 of the national government and the 7s of 1949 served as pacemakers for other bonds of that nation. The ramifications of the situation are so great that their influence was more or less apparent in all foreign issues.

The announcement of a moratorium on Chilean obligations on Thursday accompanied a sharp slump in them, part of which was recovered subsequently.

United States Government loans wavered back and forth without appreciable changes.

Domestic corporate loans acted similarly. The average price of the representative rail loans closed at 100.2, compared with 101 a week earlier, but the difference in the comparative figures for public utility and industrial issues was smaller.

However, high grade corporate bonds continued to reflect a favorably steady demand. The plans for the early offering of issues of the Cincinnati Union Terminal and of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western indicate that the bankers are confident of the market for bonds of such high standing.

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, July 19.—New State and municipal bonds scheduled for award this week total $23,861,800 and represent the needs of 59 communities, the Bond Buyer reports. The total compares with $45,109,945 last week and a weekly average of $40,906,289 for the year to date. The large issues include $10,000,000 State of South Carolina bonds for State highway purposes on Thursday; $2,640,000 Trenton, N. J., bonds on Wednesday, and $1,000,000 State of New Mexico State highway debentures on Monday.

Indicated net profits of fifteen leading New York City banks and trust companies in the first six months of 1931 were 49 per cent less than in the corresponding period last year, after appropriations for reserves, a survey by Moody's says. Since local banks do not customarily publish detailed financial statements the computation is based on dividends paid and a comparison of balance sheets.

Industrial activity in the United States in June fell 5 per cent from May and registered a 9.3 per cent decline from the level prevailing in June, 1930, according to Electrical World's monthly summary of electrical energy consumption in 3,300 manufacturing plants scattered throughout the country. Records of plant operations during the past eight years show an average drop of 5 points from the preceding month. The decrease this year is therefore ascribed entirely to usual seasonal changes in the several industries, but when seasonal adjustments are applied to the individual indices, industry is relatievly on the identical level as May.

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the board of directors of the Portland Cement Association and banking commissioner of New Jersey, announced the appointment of Edward J. Mehren, of Chicago, as president of the Portland Cement Association. Mr. Mehren for ten years was editor of Engineering Record, later Engineering News-Record. He afterward became vice president and editorial director of McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., and has been in charge of the company's activities in the Middle West.

Wage rates per hour in the building trades throughout the United States, notwithstanding the business depression, have continued an almost uninterrupted rise that had its beginning in 1922, a report by the National Industrial Conference Board says. At the end of 1930 the composite hourly wage rate of 16 building trades, in 23 principal cities, was 27.4 per cent higher than it was in 1923, the report says.

Increase Is Shown By Westinghouse

Net Income of $926,604 Is Compared With Loss of $2,885,945.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. today reported for the quarter ended June 30 net income of $926,604, compared with a net loss of $2,885,945 for the first quarter this year.

The June quarter net this year compares with net income of $3,810,744, equal to $1.43 a common share in the corresponding quarter of 1930.

Net sales billed for the quarter this year increased to $32,147,258, as compared with $28,476,175, adjusted to a comparable basis, for the March quarter this year.

Because of tremendous popular demand for further air-conditioned service since we announced the first air-conditioned train in railroad history—The Columbian—in May, we are now offering a morning train service, also air-conditioned, beginning Monday, July 20th. Parlor cars, Club-Lounge, Dining car, and Individual Seat coaches—cool, clean and quiet. For dust, smoke, cinders, and excessive humidity are removed from the air; the air itself is completely changed every two minutes; closed windows, and rubber pads on the car trucks, muffle outside noise. Clean and cool and quiet!

Now you may leave either in the morning or afternoon of the hottest Midsummer day and arrive fresher and more comfortable than before you boarded the train!

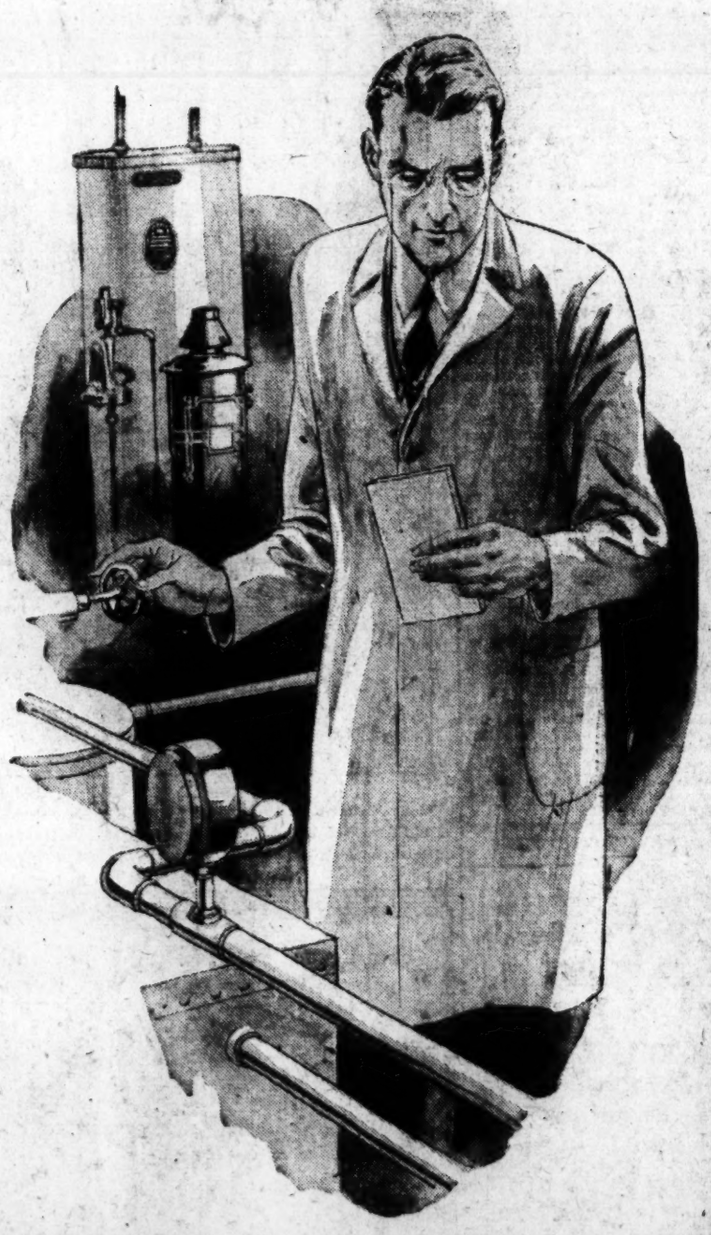
ANNOUNCING

a new ORGANIZATION AND A NEW SERVICE



Certified Hot Water Association is a new District organization which can mean a lot to every household in this community.

Realizing that different cities and families have different hot water requirements, a number of leading District plumbers have organized to study your needs and find out how to meet them. A nationally known expert in co-operation with this Association and leading manufacturers, working in a special laboratory supplied by the Gas Company, has now perfected the an automatic water heater designed to meet District conditions. This work has been approved by the District Plumbing Inspector.

But that is not all. Since family requirements vary, qualified members of this Association are prepared to survey your home and recommend exactly the water heating plant which will meet your needs at least expense.

Every family should have all the hot water they want whenever they want it, and you can do so at trifling cost if your heater is right.

Call your Gas Company or your plumber. Just say you want the free survey of your home's hot water needs. You'll be amazed at the new convenience and economy that can follow.

DEBTS MORATORIUM TO AID U. S. FARMER

Economic Rehabilitation of Europe Seen as Benefit to Wheat Grower.

(Associated Press.)

Agreement with President Hoover's views expressed to Senator Capper that economic rehabilitation of Central Europe will go far toward solving troubles of American wheat farmers came yesterday from Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board.

"Success of the debt moratorium," he said, "will start things moving freely, stimulate exports, tend to break down import restrictions and create a better sentiment throughout the world."

Meantime, he added, "If I were a Kansas farmer I would store my wheat or feed it until the price improved."

Southwestern farmers, who a week ago were receiving as low as 25 cents a bushel for their bumper crop, have adopted this expedient. As a result, movement to markets has dwindled with a subsequent increase of 4 or 5 cents in price.

Farmers Are Given Aid.

A widespread voluntary moratorium on farmers' debts by bankers, merchants and supply houses has permitted farmers to withhold their crops. In many cases wheat is being used as a medium of exchange for necessities and luxuries at higher than market prices.

Mr. Hoover, who has become increasingly concerned over the wheat growers' economic welfare, told Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, Saturday that the debt moratorium had solved the "major problem" in the central European crisis, to which he attributed the "present paralysis" of the export market.

Senator Capper and Vice President Curtis, also a Kansan, have sought to impress upon the Chief Executive the need for a Farm Board pledge it would not dispose of any of stabilization wheat holdings in competition with the new crop.

This Year's Crops Larger.

European importing countries have been doing only hand-to-mouth buying. Limitations on foreign wheat used with domestic wheat have been increased by several; others have raised their tariff. Stocks of old wheat are lower than last year, but this year's crops are larger.

The Agriculture Department expects present crop prospects, existence of surplus in exporting nations and demand to bring another year of low prices for the world as a whole.

Colored Man Hit-Run Victim.

James Alexander Jenkins, 74-year-old Negro, Good Hope Hill, southeast, was struck by a hit-and-run automobile early yesterday, while walking near Sixty-third street northeast, on Dix street. Taken to Casualty Hospital he was treated for lacerations.

Ice-Breaker Sails to Meet Zeppelin at 'Top of World'

Soviet Craft Bears Americans on Trip to Polar Region; Nobile Will Seek Missing Section of Wrecked Italia and Crew Believed Dead.

Archangel, U. S. R. R., July 19 (A. P.).—Bound for a voyage of Arctic exploration and a rendezvous with the dirigible Graf Zeppelin near the "top of the world" the Soviet ice-breaker Maligin was under way today, carrying three Americans and a group of Russian scientists and newspaper men.

Also aboard the ship which sailed last night was Gen. Umberto Nobile, Italian explorer, who will seek traces of the missing section of his wrecked dirigible Italia, and the fate of his six missing comrades on the disastrous expedition of three years ago.

Mrs. Emma B. Dresser, of New York, her son, Don L. Dresser, Detroit engineer, and Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson, of New York, comprised the American contingent and were the only other foreigners aboard.

They will make the voyage as tourists.

The Maligin expects to establish contact with the Graf Zeppelin late in July or early in August in the region of Franz Josef Land, where mail is to be exchanged and the passengers are to visit back and forth by means of pontoons permitting the dirigible to alight on the water. More than a month will be spent in the Far North, which at this season has perpetual daylight.

While it is primarily a scientific expedition for the study of meteorological conditions, the ice drift and ocean soundings, facilities have been provded for those wishing to hunt polar bear, seal and walrus.

Gen. Nobile is convinced that none of his missing comrades on the Italia survived, but he believes there is a chance that part of the dirigible's wreckage and even traces of the fate of the missing members of the crew may be found along the island shores or the waters east of Spitzbergen.

A possibility is seen that new territory may be discovered, for the Maligin's route takes her into hitherto unexplored waters. Through the White Sea, Barents Sea and the Arctic Ocean, the ice breaker will go to Hookers Island on the western edge of Franz Josef Archipelago, where the Soviet Union maintains the farthest north meteorological station. The station's personnel includes Mme. Demme, wife of the director, who has spent more than a year in this isolated region.

From Hookers Island, the route includes Cape Flora, noted for its birds bazaar; Queen Victorias Land at the northern tip of the archipelago, and Crown Prince Rudolphs Island.

Early in August the ice breaker will swing southward to Nova Ya Zemlya and Colquey Island, ending her voyage at Archangel about August 25.

Prof. U. V. Vize, explorer and scientist, who commanded the Maligin when she went with her sister ship, the Krassin, to the rescue of Nobile, heads the present expedition, which is sponsored by the Archangel Institute for Arctic Studies.

The vessel, of 1,600 gross tons, 243 feet long, with a 41-foot beam, carries a crew of 50. It is fitted throughout as a modern yacht to provide for the comfort of the members of the expedition.

Woman Provides Peace For Her Faithful Dog

St. Louis, Mo., July 19 (U.P.).—Twenty years of peaceful, comfortable and luxurious living without fear of depression or unemployment is guaranteed for a faithful old dog which was a pet of the late Mrs. Sarah W. Flynn for 20 years. Provisions for a $1,000 trust fund to be used for the care of the dog was made in Mrs. Flynn's will, filed here recently.

The dog, which was recently sent to Arcadia, Mo., would have $60 a year for its care if the trust fund were loaned at 6 per cent interest.

SIBERIAN AIRPLANE CRASH IS DETAILED

LeBrix, Aids Encountered Storm and Were Forced to Leap for Lives.

Moscow, July 19 (A.P.).—First details of the mishap suffered by Joseph LeBrix and his two companions when they were forced to land their plane in Siberia during their attempt at a nonstop flight from Paris to Tokyo were received here today.

Marcel Doret was piloting the ship at the time. They encountered a terrific storm, the motor failed and he told his comrades to jump.

Below was black mid-Siberian darkness, but Doret stayed with the plane and brought it down within a few feet of the ground, after which he leaped to safety without a parachute.

Rene Mesnin, the mechanic, was sleeping and Doret and LeBrix had to wake him up for the jump. With LeBrix he leaped from a height of about 2,000 feet.

The plane was almost touching the tops of the trees when Doret jumped and it crashed into the trees.

Before extricating himself from his parachute LeBrix fired his pistol several times. Railway workers nearby responded immediately and helped to carry Mesnin, who was slightly injured, to the railroad station at Sheberti, 2 miles away.

The wounded mechanic was later taken to Nzhniudinsk.

Shaw Fails to Hide Identity On Entering Hotel in Berlin

Berlin, July 19 (A.P.).—George Bernard Shaw passed through Berlin today en route to Moscow on what was virtually a nonstop trip. He arrived in the forenoon and departed in the afternoon.

He was accompanied by Lord and Lady Astor and attempted to hide his identity and avoid reporters by signing a hotel register "Lord and Lady Astor and party." However, his personality was too well known here, where he is extremely popular, and he soon found himself waylaid in the hotel lobby.

"I don't answer questions," the satirist shouted as he fled into an elevator.

Returning from a visit to the British Ambassador, he again was caught and told his interviewers:

"I can not and must not answer political questions. How long I remain in Russia you will learn later."

STATESMEN AT LONDON.

The world-wide financial drama, in which the stability of Germany and other European nations is at stake, now centers in London. Premier Laval has given assurance that France will be represented at the London conference, although Germany and France have not yet come to a full understanding. Apparently the whole German problem and its ramifications are to be dropped into the lap of the statesmen gathered at London.

Premier Laval's decision to take part in the discussions at London seems to mean, nevertheless, that Germany has agreed in principle to the chief demands of the French. It is hardly to be supposed that the French would have risked participation in this conference without rather definite indications that Germany would furnish satisfactory political guarantees in return for financial aid. France might have caused a postponement of the London gathering. Premier Laval could have refused to budge until the Germans met his demands, and the London conference could not have proceeded. Instead, he seems willing to discuss the matter around the council table with Great Britain, the United States, Italy and the other chief creditors of Germany.

Discussions in Paris apparently turned only on broad general principles. France seems to be satisfied that Germany will agree to maintain the status quo in Europe for ten years, or else France holds a trump card that has not yet been exposed to the public view. Germany has already taken steps to strengthen its own financial structure by prohibiting the flow of capital into foreign securities. Perhaps the government is ready to compromise with the French and take chances on defending its action before the German public. Germany is in a critical condition. Sacrifices may be considered necessary to save the republic.

One other reason why France is willing to negotiate these problems at London may be seen in its proposal that the principal creditor nations guarantee a loan of $500,000,000 to Germany. France is attempting to obtain political guarantees from Germany and financial guarantees from the governments of the former Allies. Great Britain objects, and of course, the American Government can not involve its funds in guarantees without congressional approval.

Failure of France and Germany to settle their differences at Paris puts the American delegation at London in a still more precarious position. It appears certain that the negotiations can not be kept on an economic basis. European politics will be forced to the front, and desperate efforts will be made to draw the United States into commitments that are contrary to the policy of this Government.

This is one of the most delicate problems that the administration has handled. President Hoover's position has been clearly defined. The United States will interest itself in the financial situation, but will remain aloof from the political entanglements into which European finance has fallen. Now that the whole problem of Germany's financial salvation and the many political angles of that problem have been laid into the lap of the London conference, the burden of responsibility upon the American delegates has been doubled.

OLD SPANISH CUSTOMS.

Racial and national differences in customs and traditions form never-ending subjects of discussion. The persistence of ethnical traits through countless generations, even when individuals or groups are far removed from their original environment, provides interesting study and speculation. Even peoples as closely associated as the Latins and Anglo-Saxons continue to show sharp dividing lines. Commercial and cultural intercourse through the centuries has failed to alter attributes that remain distinctly characteristic.

The Latins often find Saxon associates brusque in manner and material in spirit. The Saxon, conversely, is at times impatient with what he considers an excess of superficial politeness and feigned indifference to worldly things. To chance acquaintances these variations, not so much of actual disposition as in the outward form of expression, cause annoyance and at times misunderstandings. But when the races live side by side they usually learn properly to appraise each other's characteristics.

One of the manifestations of life in Latin countries, both of Europe and the Americas, that is difficult for Americans to understand, is the seriousness with which student demonstrations are considered. Processions of college youth march to the palace to demand constitutional reforms. They pass ringing resolutions demanding the abdication of a ruler and stage street demonstrations that are little short of revolutionary. At present there are "student strikes" in three Latin-American countries. In the capital of Paraguay the medical students have taken possession of a hospital. In Argentina pupils are striking for "return of constitutional government." In Uruguay even high school children have joined their university elders in striking for "reforms."

Such exhibitions are not a result of the freedom of modern youth, but have long been an old Spanish custom. It is impossible for Americans to understand why such bumptious minors are not properly controlled. In this country such presumption of knowledge and authority by adolescents would not be tolerated. However, this would be a tedious world if all men and all peoples were alike either in matters of every day practice or in the less vital manifestations of taste and social custom. Different customs may be discussed and even criticized and yet enjoyed from the very fact of their dissimilarity.

CURBING STATE TAXES.

Following the lead of Indiana, a number of States have taken steps to limit tax levies through a central tax commission. State officials of Indiana claim to have saved approximately $80,000,000 since the tax commission was established eight years ago. A similar organization has been recommended to the Legislature of Oregon by Gov. Julius L. Meier, who believes that the excessive tax rate in his State is working real hardship among the people.

Taxation in Oregon is estimated to absorb 19.3 per cent of the people's income. This heavy burden rests mainly on the shoulders of real estate owners. Indirect taxation on land is further increased by assessments for improvements. As a result more than 5,000,000 acres of the less productive lands are delinquent in taxes. Continual foreclosing on such land by counties has removed a large part of it from the tax rolls, with the result that the burden is increased upon those who manage to meet their obligations.

Wasteful methods of local and State government are largely responsible for the growth of budgets. Unrestricted by proper supervision, taxes have mounted to cover the extravagance of every department.

The Oregon Tax Commission is empowered to review the legality of tax levies, but can not probe into waste or prevent excessive levies. Any reductions, therefore, can be brought about only through voluntary organization among the taxpayers themselves. Gov. Meier has urged the people, in view of this condition, to develop an unofficial organization of State-wide scope and to perfect tax leagues in each county. These leagues would scrutinize every item entering the various local budgets, bringing pressure to bear for the elimination of all extravagance. County units would be affiliated with the tax commission of the whole State, which would be concerned with supervision of the local leagues as well as with matters of State-wide taxation.

Efforts which are being made throughout the States to institute more scientific government are resulting in a marked improvement of local administration. Public officials who are endeavoring to establish taxpayers' leagues and commissions of experts detached from political affiliations are striking at the roots of excessive taxation.

CRITICISM OF OFFICIALS.

What is the proper attitude of the people and the press toward public officials? Should their acts be above criticism until results are fully known, or should they be discussed freely and advice given, even in advance? The press frequently speaks its mind upon this subject, and quite naturally the newspapers support their own practice of liberally offering both counsel and admonition. It is interesting to hear the views of an official on this subject. They have been given by Attorney General C. A. Sorensen of Nebraska.

"Public officials," says Mr. Sorensen, "are hired men, employes, servants. They are hired by the people, paid by the people and subject to discharge by the people for failure to obey orders. There is nothing holy about them. They are human. They like praise. Few of them suffer with an inferiority complex."

Defining them thus Mr. Sorensen asks what the position of the press should be toward them, and answers his own question as follows:

> Newspapers owe to their readers the duty of ascertaining the facts about the officials of the town, county, State and Nation. Silence on the part of the editor breeds ignorance and lack of interest on the part of the public. The people rule. They can not rule intelligently unless the press gives them the facts. A fearless newspaper with the ability to get and print the facts is a priceless asset to the State and Nation. Its powerful influence carries with it tremendous moral responsibility. Its attitude toward public officials should be willingness to criticize them if criticism is justified. Crooked politicians fear the press more than the courts. Those in office are not entitled to ask for immunity. Newspapers should be fair, but when necessary they should treat them rough. It is good for them.

And as to the attitude of the public official toward the press, Mr. Sorensen believes that "the official should be honest and frank. The press is a window through which the public looks in and sees its servants at work. The picture should not be distorted."

WILLIAMSTOWN'S INSTITUTE.

Forums for the discussion of national and international problems are assuming a place of importance in America. Questions of wide scope are brought before groups of experts and round tables are opened to diverse opinions with results that have proved their value. Following the recent meeting in Charlottesville of the Institute of Public Affairs, which deals with domestic and Latin-American problems, the older Institute of Williamstown will devote a month to important questions.

World economic planning will be discussed at Williamstown when the Institute of Politics opens its sessions on July 30. The program as announced by Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College and chairman of the institute, will include prominent speakers from Europe as well as from all sections of this country.

In connection with the study of economic organization each of the various types existing in the world today will be discussed. A representative for each system will expatiate upon the relative value. Dr. Villari, of the University of Rome, will talk on the "Economics of Fascism." Dr. Counts, of Colombia University, will discuss the "Economics of Communism," while Dr. Rorty, of New York, and Prof. Gregory, of the London School of Economics, will discuss the advantages of capitalism.

In addition to these speakers Prof. Herbert von Beckerath, of Bonn University, and Director General Le Neveu, of L'Union Coloniale of Paris, will speak on economic aspects of their own countries. It is expected that they will take up recent changes effected by President Hoover's moratorium plan.

The imposing list of authorities who will speak at the coming session of the institute, and the leaders who will conduct the round table discussions, promise interesting and spirited discussions. The round tables on the social psychology of international conduct, as well as the discussion of the "Future of Democracy," should add much to the gayety of theoretical controversy.

AUSTRALIA'S AIR SURVEY.

Australia was discovered in the thirteenth century, yet there are sections today that have not been explored. An expedition to Lake Eyre and Lake Torrens will map areas little known to man. Although the continent was permanently settled 140 years ago, this section is being surveyed for the first time from the air.

One reason why this continent was not settled by Europeans until comparatively recent times is its immense distance from the rest of the world. But the main cause of its late colonization was the reports brought back by early Dutch navigators. These voyagers never found the more attractive shores. They sailed along coasts that were flanked for hundreds of miles by dangerous coral reefs. The shores were barren or swampy and the natives produced no materials for trade.

Several centuries elapsed before the English, making a more thorough search, discovered the rich coastal region where the greater part of Australia's population lives today. Sixty-four of the 80 largest towns are situated on this coast line. The climate, soil and health conditions of a large part of the island make it unsuitable for settlement. Out of the continent's 6,000,000 people, 5,000,000 live within easy reach of the coast line between Rockhampton, in Queensland, and Adelaide, in South Australia. Agriculture, dairying, sheep raising, horticulture and other industries thrive in this region.

Among other things the aerial expedition will endeavor to trace the rivers that flow down the great eastern mountains to empty ultimately into the River Murray, or to be lost uselessly in swamps, deserts or lakes. A study of these bodies of water may be of increasing importance to the commonwealth as its population increases.

CORNWALLIS' SURRENDER

From the Boston Transcript.

Much that is fiction has come to be regarded as history. Now and then the fictions are revealed as running counter to the fact or the probability. Pundits who have pored over ancient records dispute the existence of William Tell, and if he never existed it follows that he never shot an apple from the head of his son. It has been pretty conclusively established that no gallant French officer shouted in the midst of the welter at Waterloo that the Old Guard died but never surrendered. Parson Weems' story of the little George Washington, the cherry tree and the hatchet is discredited. Stonewall Jackson did not see Barbara Frietchie on the morning of the flag episode, and so issued no order that he who touched but a hair on yon gray head should die like a dog. But it has not yet been denied that Lord Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown.

Instead, it is now proposed that the surrender should be omitted from the pageant to be given on the occasion of the Yorktown sesquicentennial. The matter has been brought to the attention of the State Department whose opinion on this momentous issue is eagerly awaited. The proposal that in this reproduction of the glorious past the great event that made Yorktown famous should be forgotten in the pageantry is prompted by a desire not to wound British susceptibilities. Representative Sol Bloom of the Washington Bicentennial Commission, is prompt with objection. He takes the position that it was the surrender at Yorktown which placed the keystone in the arch of the American Revolution and made possible the birth of a nation.

Here in New England the idea that international friendship will suffer if Cornwallis surrenders in pageantry as he surrendered in fact is likely to be received with amusement. Every year on nineteenth of April, "Paul Revere" and "William Dawes" ride again. There is again the call of alarm to every Middlesex village and farm, and with the dawn again is fired the shot heard round the world. Two months later soldiers, sailors and marines march through the streets of Charlestown to recall the day on which the embattled farmers proved that they could stand against the massed attack of British regulars. At this time, the rebuilt Constitution is going from port to port along the New England coast, and the fame of Old Ironsides rests on her victories over English men o' war. But it has not occurred to anybody that Patriots' Day and Bunker Hill Day celebrations and the rebuilding of the famous frigate are likely to cause resentment in England. So New Englanders will not view with alarm the prospect that a twentieth-century "Cornwallis" will appear in the pageant at Yorktown.

All of which suggests the idea that if British feelings were so tender and concession were made to them it would logically follow that Americans should forget there ever was a Revolution. Instead there will be agreement with the statement made in the present controversy that the English are good sports, and much too good sports to ask that history be altered or suppressed in any such manner as that proposed for the Yorktown observance.

POST HASTE.

It is idle to speculate upon what Spain would be today if the Moors had not been expelled, but it would be interesting to see Spain 100 years hence if they now return in response to the invitation of the new republic.

No Matter How Poor the Fare, the Guest Must Eat With the Family.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

RECENTLY the Supreme Court denied citizenship to two distinguished, intelligent and inoffensive people because they would not pledge themselves to bear arms in defense of the country except as their sense of right directed.

Liberals in all walks of life resent the decision. They regard it as another effort to interfere with the citizen's freedom of thought and conscience.

But the court merely upheld the rights of the state, and the state in this instance claims no right to control the citizen's thought or conscience. It claims only the right to use him as cannon fodder, and is not at all interested in his mental reactions. So long as he keeps step in ranks, he may think what he pleases.

The court could have made no other decision in harmony with justice and logic.

Under the rules that govern our civilization, the first duty of the citizen is to support and defend his country.

He must support it by paying taxes and defend it by bearing arms. He must give his property and his person.

This is the established rule, sanctified by the will of the majority.

Why, then, should the rule be changed to please applicants for citizenship?

If ten people are playing a game in accordance with established rules and two strangers ask permission to join the play, is it reasonable or right to change the rules in order to benefit the strangers and them alone?

If the rule of enforced military service in violation of conscience is unfair to those who wish to become citizens, isn't it doubly unfair to those born citizens who had no opportunity to reject it?

In the late great conflict the members of one small sect were not required to bear arms because their creed forbids violence, but they were required to pay taxes and their tax money supported men in arms.

All Christian creeds forbid warfare, but the state would be without adequate defense if it excused all Christians.

To excuse any is to concede that war is offensive to man's conscience.

To require any service of the unwilling is to declare the state's need more sacred than the individual's right to freedom.

Thus service to the state in time of war is defined as a necessary evil.

That is the rule, right or wrong. The Supreme Court merely decided against the injustice of making exceptions.

If wrong exists, it is in the rule.

Lamont's Advice.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont advised business men to solve their own problems. He declared that the chief reliance must be on "individual initiative," and that "the Government can help industry to help itself, but business must be its own physician."

Among the innumerable plans suggested and proposed for the relief of depression and the country's unemployment burden, not one can add anything of worth to this sage and fundamental wisdom. It is common sense. It deprecates and condemns the fallacy of Government paternalism. It negatives the view that the Government should make impressive appropriations for either public works or for the purposes of direct relief of those out of work.

Strong Navy Needed.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Secretary of the Navy Adams a few days ago made a speech which might be regarded as startling in consideration of the present naval situation and certain high official utterance.

Secretary Adams declared the Navy to be necessary. He emphasized its usefulness in times of peace. He spoke of what it must mean to the trade and commerce of the country, of general prosperity, and, above all, to the national defense. He said, without qualification, that the United States Navy is not what it should be. What there is of it is good, but limitations and age, and failure properly to provide for its future were working to nullify its usefulness.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Reno Divorces Are Valid, California Legal Sharp to the Contrary Notwithstanding.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent newspaper article appears this heading: "Reno Divorces Held Invalid by Famous California Lawyer."

The first statement is made by this "divorce law authority" that (1) "A Reno divorce is good only until some one questions it"—and in support of this "authority" it is recited that he "was counsel in various cases for Aimee Semple McPherson and Rudolph Valentino." Aimee is a very nice girl and Rudolph was a very nice boy, but being counsel for the aforesaid does not qualify one to speak "ex cathedra" on the question of divorce.

Certainly a Reno divorce is good until some one questions it; and it is good forever after that, if it is not set aside by a competent tribunal, on evidence justifying such action. Not only is this true with respect to "Reno divorces," but it is true with respect to divorces granted by any court in the Union.

The learned jurist proceeds: "Prosecution for bigamy in cases of a second marriage is possible if a Reno divorce is questioned." No! Where in the annals of English law can you find that the mere "questioning" of of a status gives rise to a criminal charge of bigamy or any other crime? When the court has spoken, the judgment "stands" until reversed by competent authority.

He continues: "Other possibilities are property disputes and delay in probate of estates." This statement is simply meaningless and silly.

The requirements set forth in the Nevada laws as to divorce are similar in most respects to the requirements set forth in the laws of the various States, save that in some States and the District of Columbia divorce can only be obtained upon so-called statutory grounds. In Nevada, as in the District of Columbia, or California, there is a required period of residence, which must be actually had before the court will entertain the petition. Proof of such residence is made by affidavit under oath, just the same as it is made here at Washington, and the court once having obtained jurisdiction, considers and disposes of the case, subject to the laws of Nevada or California, as the case may be, and when the decree is signed it is binding upon all parties unless reversed.

There is no such thing as getting divorce by proxy. The law requires, and there must be, bona fide legal residence.

Reno divorces are perfectly valid.

A MEMBER OF THE BAR.

Vast Complications Surrounding Attempt to Depict Cornwallis' Surrender.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There has recently been a great deal of criticism directed at the State Department for its stand against exploiting the surrender of General Cornwallis at Yorktown. Many maintain that this attitude is an unpatriotic one and a disgrace to the Department. Very few people, however, realize that the reproduction of this scene will involve another nation besides Great Britian. At the time of the surrender at Yorktown three-fourths of the troops under Washington were Frenchmen. I wonder whether this will dampen any patriotic enthusiasm? Will not the French feel slighted if due recognition is not given to them?

Objects to Increased Railroad Rates as Favoring Men Already Highly Paid.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have noticed that the I. C. C. continues to discuss the 15 per cent increase of railroad freight rates and somewhere it comes out that it is an emergency affair. If so, why not a passenger fare, too? At this time when millions of Americans are not receiving wages even to carry on—others none at all—what business has the Government to favor one class and a high-paid bunch of railroad employes?

TO THE LEGIONNAIRES.

Soldiers of the legion, there's a welcome waiting for you,
Here a million hearts devoted will be palpitating for you.
Oh, it's glad am I you're coming to the city that I love,
Where the years are not forgotten when the skies were dark above.
Here you'll march to merrier music than you ever heard in France,
Where machine guns used to rattle and death threatened each advance.

I remember in the old days all the prayers we prayed for you,
And all the little comforts which our women made for you.
"Our boys across the seas" you were, for those were years of doubt
Which you may sometimes think that we've forgotten all about,
But come and let us show you that we haven't ceased to care,
Although the fighting doughboy now is called a legionnaire.

The call is for September, and my city waits for you
With lusty cheers of welcome she will swing her gates for you.
We'll set the banners flying and we'll tell the bands to play,
We'll line the streets to cheer you as you swing along the way.
We'll have no gruff top sergeant shouting orders out to you,
And, Buddy, while you're with us there'll be no K. P. to do.

BEACH HOME SAVES MONEY FOR SUMMER

Cost of Lot and Cottage Is Less Than Many Pay as Rent in City.

Have you given any serious thought to having a summer home for yourself and your family? If you have, or if this is the first time the matter has been called to your attention, let Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development on South River in Maryland get a lot of your attention. Here are ten reasons why Woodland Beach will prove attractive to you as a summer home site:

1. The price of lots is reasonable.

2. Even with your building costs, your monthly outlay is liable to be considerably less than the cost of rent in the city.

3. Woodland Beach is well located, just 32 miles from Washington and suitable for commuting.

4. Woodland Beach has a wide expanse of water on which to build, the total for the development being 4½ miles fronting on South River or its coves.

5. The Beach is situated in the center of almost virgin territory with wooded areas especially appealing in summer.

6.—Woodland Beach will soon be a real up and coming community and it has a community clubhouse of Colonial design with well appointed furnishings.

7.—Children may play in safety at Woodland Beach, for it has shallow inlets for wading and amusement devices in the rear of the clubhouse.

8.—Summer cottages being erected at the beach are of excellent quality and you will not have to be ashamed of your neighbors.

9.—Improvements planned in the near future in the territory in and around Woodland Beach are expected to increase the value of lots.

10.—The terms offered on Woodland Beach property are so easy that they cannot be overlooked without regret.

If you did not visit Woodland Beach yesterday call at The Post today and learn all about it. It is not too late to secure an excellent location there and your action may mean many happy summers away from the heat and dust of the city.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

BY no means the most hopeful augury of a new theatrical season prolific in substantial successes is to be found in the fact that at the present moment fewer theaters house attractions on Broadway—meaning anywhere within gun shot of that gaudy thoroughfare in New York—than at any time during the past two decades. There can be but one interpretation of this low ebb of active productions in the summer theater. To bring the roster up to normal in the fall, something like 60 theaters now dark will have to be resuscitated by the presentation of new or revived offerings. This, my kiddies, is a tough order. Very tough.

There are plans in operation, however, that promise distinguished fruition. Foremost among them probably is the Theater Guild's determination to present Eugene O'Neill's new trilogy, "Mourning Becomes Electra," with Mme. Alla Nazimova in the leading role, which will require three nights to play. This should be an event of first magnitude at any period of any season.

Vicki Baum, the German housewife, who can not understand why "Grand Hotel," which she wrote as a novel, should have attained such a vogue as a play in this country, is reputed to have two new stage works on the way to American audiences, on the theory, perhaps, that it might be best to fool them further before they discover that her dramas are really books! One is "Parisier Platz 13," written some time ago; the other, her novel, "And Life Goes On," which has not as yet even been dramatized. It is likely that she will perform this job herself, relying on a translator to render her dramatization into English.

Then, also in more or less immediate prospect, there is the new light comedy by Robert E. Sherwood, formerly editor of Life and author of "The Road to Rome" and "This is New York," "Reunion in Vienna," which is now supposed to be the lure that will tempt Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne back to the stage from the movies—provided, of course, they ever get going in celluloid.

And, to be sure, Alice Brady is coming along in her daddy's production of "Manhattan Nocturne," Sada Cowan is said to have a sensational courtroom drama in "Defiance," and Phil Dunning, remembered for "Broadway" and "Night Hostess," collaborating for the first time with Mrs. Dunning, is coming to bat with a new comedy, tentatively called "Lily."

But even so, and terrible as I am at mathematics, I can't for the life of me make all this add up to 60 theaters!

The revue fans, though, won't be doing so badly during the next month or so.

Tomorrow night in the George M. Cohan Theater, New York, the cooperative production, "Shoot the Works," sponsored by Heywood Broun, will get under way as a means of relieving a large number of unemployed actors and, it is hoped, diverting a large number of conscientious amusement seekers.

Possibly awaited with a little more feverish anxiety are the new editions of George White's "Scandals" and Earl Carroll's "Vanities." The former will boast Rudy Vallee as its star, with Ethel Barrymore Colt along to help in the crooning, while Deacon Carroll is relying on Will Mahoney and Jack Benny, plus a new theater with a night club in the basement to keep the customers awake over the intermissions—or put them to sleep, as the case may be.

And that still doesn't add up 60!

And don't forget that we have our own summer production to be concerned about. Auditions are to be held this morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, at the Fox, for principals and chorus of the local revue Harry Crull plans to present the week of August 21. I repeat, line forms to the right—and don't shove, that may be the prima donna you're kicking in the ankle!

That isn't all that's going on at the Fox today, either. Members of the C. M. T. C., at Fort Myer, Va., will drop the serious business of war for a few hours, following their visit to the President at the White House, and will endeavor to distract their minds from infantry drills, trench building, K. P., or what else don't you like, by enjoying the frivolous nonse of "Annabelle's Affairs," as guests of the management.

Headed by the Third Cavalry Band, our future generals, majors, captains and maybe second louies will leave the Executive Mansion about 1:15 p. m. and proceed direct to the Fox, via Fifteenth street and through F.

Seated in a choice reserved section of the refrigerated theater, they can watch Victor McLaglen do a little real fighting and cogitate upon the degree to which Gen. Sherman didn't know what he was talking about when he said what war is!

Just to substantiate the speculative guess made a week ago, it may now be definitely stated that Allan Rogers, one of the most popular masters of ceremonies the Palace Theater ever had, is on his way back to Thirteenth and F at the head of a new Loew stage unit.

lowngi week, Fred Keating, the famous magician, will come into the ous magician, will come into the Palace in another new Loew revue, bearing the title of "Hi, Ho, Presto!" which seems to me a swell bit of nomenclature since this Keating guy is as apt as not to take a full-grown goose right out of your vest pocket, or maybe a Shetland pony out of your ear, or something!

Radio-Keith-Orpheum is putting the spurs to its managerial staff in most delightful fashion.

Instead of cracking a bullwhip about their ears, Joe Plunkett, vice president and general manager, has instituted a national competition in salesmanship and showmanship among the managers of RKO houses. The winner will be awarded a month's outing in Europe via the S. S. Conte Grande, giant flagship of one of the Lloyd Lines.

This, of course, reduced to its lowest terms, means "get in the crowds," and Hardie Meakin, manager of the local RKO-Keith Theater, thinks he can do it and possibly cop that trip.

With Helen Twelvetrees drawing them in nicely with "A Woman of Experience," the current attraction, and Constance Bennett in "The Common Law" and Barbara Stanwyck in "The Miracle Woman," the successive bookings, he might be right, at that!

But why go to Europe? These dry, crisp, invigorating days Washington, as has been so often remarked, is the perfect summer resort.

And am I laughing?

Internal Revenue Outing.

Approximately 1,500 employes of the Bureau of Internal Revenue have chartered the Wilson Line steamer "City of Washington" tonight for their annual outing on the Potomac. The party will leave the Wilson Line dock at 8:45 o'clock for a three-hour river cruise. H. B. Robinson is in charge of the arrangements.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Stay-at-Home Society Finds Pleasure Here

Cool Club Verandas Are Assembly Places for Saturday Evening.

MIDSUMMER finds a large contingent of Washington society very much chez soi, a state largely owing to the condition of the world's finances, which are among society's most capricious toys. For the first time in years it is smart to have reduced incomes and the "can't-afford-its" are constantly recurring in the conversation of the best.

For the stay-at-homes there is no lack of diversion this summer in the Capital. Little dinners with bridge or backgammon to follow, aperitif parties, morning and afternoon card parties followed by luncheon or tea, Saturday polo, to be followed by supper at a nearby club, and, most popular of all, swimming parties in private pools or at neighboring beaches, all combine to make one forget the exigencies of a "poor summer," and to realize that society is nothing if not resourceful.

Saturday evening a large and most attractive group of those still remaining in Washington haunted the cool verandas of a nearby club, where they had dined. Many of the younger set danced or swam in the lighted pool, while the elders sipped cooling drinks on the terraces, and still others played bridge and backgammon in the spacious clubrooms.

Among those seen there were the First Secretary of the French Embassy, M. Pierre Henri de la Blanchetai; the Naval Attache of the Embassy, Capt. Louis Sable; the Assistant Military Attache and Mme. Lombard with the latter's mother, Mrs. Charles Carusi, these last keeping much to themselves on the dusky veranda and not joining in the merriment because of the recent death of Mr. Carusi.

Others there were the Secretary of the Italian Embassy, Nobile Carlo Andrea Soardi, recently returned from a vacation in his native land; the Second Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, Senor Don Ramon Padilla, and his younger brother, Senor Don Ricardo Padilla, who will go to New York today to assume his new duties in one of the large banks of that city. They are the sons of the former Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla, and the younger finished school only last month and has decided to cast his lot with other young men in America, rather than returning immediately to Spain with his family.

There were many other groups of older and younger people, but all were intent on keeping cool and pleasant.

Roumanian Minister Entertains at Dinner.

The Roumanian Minister, Mr. Charles A. Davila, who is passing the summer at Newport, entertained at dinner Saturday evening for his guests, the Belgium Ambassador, M. Paul May, and the Second Secretary of the Belgian Embassy, Viscount de Buisseret, who are visiting him.

Mrs. Bayard Cutting, mother of Senator Bronson Cutting, who has been touring in Maine and New Hampshire since leaving Orchard House, Tyringham, Mass., has established a book buying fund for Pleasant Valley Bird and Wildflower Sanctuary at Lenox, Mass. Bishop Thomas Frederick Davies is the president. Mrs. William Church Osborn has given the sanctuary an original Audubon copper plate.

Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College, formerly president of George Washington University, and Mrs. Lewis, have sailed for Europe where Dr. Lewis will assume his duties as honorary assistant to the Director General of the United States Section of the French Colonial Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt New, who have been abroad for the past several weeks, visiting in France and England, will arrive in New York today on the Leviathan, and will come immediately to Washington. Their son, Mr. Gordon New, will meet them in New York and will come to the Capital, where they will join their daughter, Mrs. Clare A. Christian and her young son, David, who have been in Mr. and Mrs. New's apartment at 2139 Wyoming avenue during their absence.

Rear Admiral Hutchinson I. Cone, who is in New York, will go soon to join Mrs. Cone in Champaign, Ill., where she is visiting in her former home. Mrs. Cone was before her marriage, Miss Julia Mattis, niece of the late Senator William B. McKinley, and for many years his hostess in Washington.

Just Between Friends

MISS MAE HARRIS CLARKE will be presented to society next season. Miss Clarke is pictured with her favorite pet at the home of her mother, Mrs. Philip Clarke, in Hyattsville, Md.

Mrs. Borah To Go West Next Month

Senator's Wife to Spend August in Berkshires and North Shore.

Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of Senator Borah, has closed her apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue for the remainder of the summer and left yesterday afternoon for New York. She will spend a short time there and will then go to the Berkshires, where she will visit Mrs. T. T. Ansberry at her summer home there.

Later Mrs. Borah will visit in other places in the mountains and on the North Shore before going West at the end of August to join Senator Borah in Idaho.

The senator has been in Boise for several weeks and took a house there expecting Mrs. Borah to join him earlier in July, but, owing to the extreme heat there, he advised her not to make the trip West until later in the season.

She will, however, go to be there in time for dedication of the Borah Foundation at the University of Idaho on September 4, in Moscow, Mrs. Borah's old home. The dedication day will be one of great ceremonies and will draw a large gathering from all parts of the State and even from neighboring States. The senator will deliver an address.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Van Fossan, who recently returned from a two months' visit in California, were the week-end guests of Judge and Mrs. Edgar Goodrich, at Rehoboth Beach, Del.

The American Minister to Siam, Mr. David E. Kaufman, has arrived in New York from his place at Towanda, Pa., where he recently entertained for the King and Queen of Siam, and is at the Hotel Warwick for a brief stay.

Mr. Garrard Winston Is in England.

Mr. Gerrard B. Winston, formerly Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Secretary Mellon, arrived in Southampton Saturday to spend a few days as the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell at their ocean front villa, Overdune, in Gin Lane.

The tennis exhibition yesterday afternoon at Wardman Park Hotel between William Tilden 2d, and Karel Kozeluh was viewed by a notable gathering of tennis enthusiasts. Among those in the boxes were: Col. and Mrs. Paul S. Bond, Col. George B. Young, U. S. A.; Mrs. T. A Shone, First Secretary of the British Embassy, and Mrs. Shone, Dr. F. Scott Avery with two guests, Dr. Edward J. Cummings, Mr. Edwin Rice with guests, and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, of Los Angeles, son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, of Washington, are at Juan-Les-Pins after a voyage of a year and a half on their yacht the Shenandoah III, which has a Chinese crew and is a treasure ship of antiquities. Mr. and Mrs. Fahnestock have been entertaining extensively at Antibes, France, and plan to give a series of luncheon parties on the yacht.

Dr. and Mrs. Reginald R. Walker have gone to their country place on the River Road near Bethesda, Md., and will remain there through the summer.

Tyrell-Seipp Wedding Will Be August 15

British Girl to Be Bride of Middleburg Man at The Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tyrrell of Shorn-Cliffe, Kent, England, have announced engagement of their daughter, Miss Roberta Tyrrell, to Mr. William C. Seipp, of Chicago and Middleburg, Va.

The marriage will take place August 15, at Belvoir House, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, at The Plains Va. Miss Tyrrell is a member of the faculty of Foxcroft School in Middleburg and is well-known to the colony of attractive people who make their homes near there.

Mr. Seipp has recently purchased a lovely home in the "heart of old Virginia," which he has restored and remodeled, and for the last two years has divided his time between Chicago, where his business keeps him, and Middleburg where his pleasures are.

Mr. Seipp and his bride will probably go to Europe on their wedding trip to see the latter's parents, and after a tour on the continent—will return to Middleburg where they will make their home for a part of the year.

Le Bretons Entertain In Paris Home.

Capt. and Mrs. David M. Le Breton recently gave their first reception in Paris since their arrival this spring when Capt. Le Breton took up his duties as naval attache to the American Embassy. Among those who called at their home in the Place du Palais-Bourdon were: Mrs. John Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence V. Benet, Commander and Mrs. Calvin H. Cobb, Capt. and Mrs. Charles W. Littlefield, Mrs. Charles H. Cushman, Countess de Buyer-Mimeure, Mrs. Arthur C. Webner, Mrs. Le Breton, mother of Capt. Le Breton, and his sister, Mrs. Ralph Rainsford, Col. and Mrs. Gustave Porges, Miss Anne Madison Washington, Gen. Stanley H. Ford, Gen. William Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips, Mrs. Schuyler, Capt. and Mrs. Calhoun, Miss Betty Holdrige, Counsul General Leo J. Keena, Mrs. Henry Allen, and Commander and Mrs. Randolph H. Miner.

The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, returned to the city yesterday from White Sulphur Springs, Va., where he has been for a short stay.

Col. Leon B. Kromer, recently attached to the Army War College, has just been assigned to temporary duty by the War Department in connection with the Pilgrimage of Gold Star Mothers and Widows. Col. Kromer will sail from New York on the S. S. President Roosevelt, of the United State Line, on July 22 and will return on the S. S. Republic late in August.

Gen. Ashburn Entertains at Country Club

Admiral and Mrs. Reynolds Have Arrived at Vichy.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. E. Reynolds, of Washington, have arrived in Vichy, after their stay in Paris. They are staying at the Ambassadeurs.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Q. Ashburn entertained at dinner Friday evening at the Army-Navy Country Club for their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Brown, of Birmingham, Ala., who are en route to Canada for the summer, and for Mrs. Milton H. Smith, of Memphis, Tenn., who is on her way to Eagle Path, Pa. There were sixteen in the company.

Mrs. Ashburn will leave shortly for Edgartown, Mass., to spend the summer and will be joined by Gen. Ashburn when his duties permit.

Capt. and Mrs. Alfred G. Braden entertained a small party at dinner on the Shoreham Terrace on Thursday evening when their guests included their house guests, Lieut. and Mrs. Harold R. Emery, of Lehigh University, the lieutenant being connected with the reserve officers' training camp established there; also Lieut. and Mrs. Leo Paquet, of Fort Meade, Md.

Commander Beriah M. Thompson, U. S. N., whose ship is stationed at Philadelphia, came to Washington last week for a short visit accompanied by his family and stayed at Wardman Park Hotel.

Col. L. A. Ashford entertained a small group at dinner on the Shoreham Terrace on Thursday evening.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. J. K. Crain entertained a company at the dinner dance on the Shoreham Terrace on Friday evening, when their party included Admiral and Mrs. F. M. Robinson, also Col. and Mrs. J. M. Wainwright, of Fort Riley, Kans., who are now house guests in the Crain home.

Maj. and Mrs. W. H. Frank entertained a party at the dinner dance on the Shoreham Terrace on Friday evening in compliment to Maj. and Mrs. F. T. Armstrong, of Langley Field, Va., who will come to Washington to live within a few weeks, when Maj. Armstrong takes up his new duties in the industrial division of the Army War College.

The guests included Col. and Mrs. Thomas L. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weaver, Mrs. John M. McDowell and Maj. Donald Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. Tobriner Sail For Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tobriner sailed for Europe on Saturday. They will spend several months touring France, Germany, Italy and England and will return to Washington some time during the latter part of September.

Mrs. Meyer Loeb, of Columbia road, is passing several weeks in Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Tilley, of Twenty-first street, are vacationing in Boston, having sailed a few days ago from Baltimore on the S. S. Chatham, of the Merchants & Miners Line.

Mr. S. E. Haddon, of the Naval Air Station at Hampton Roads, Va., has arrived in Washington for a brief visit.

Mr. William M. Gwynn, who recently has been appointed Third Secretary at the United States Legation in Riga, has planned to journey to his new post early in August, following a month's leave of absence. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Gwynn, who is with him in Paris.

A student for three years at the School of Oriental Languages in Paris, Mr. Gwynn has spent much of his time in the study of Russian and has mastered the language to such a degree that his appointment was made by the State Department.

Rector of St. Stephen's Goes to Atlantic City.

The Rev. Dr. George Fiske Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's and the Incarnation parish, and Mrs. Dudley are passing July and August at Atlantic City.

Later in September they will motor to Chicago, from which place Dr. Dudley will go to Denver as a delegate to the general convention which meets in that city.

Miss Joan Forster, granddaughter of the Executive Secretary of the White House and Mrs. Rudolph M. Forster, was hostess at her sixth birthday party on Saturday afternoon at Wardman Park Hotel. Flowers were sent from the White House for the table, and it was made very lovely with the addition of favors, balloons and a huge white cake with six tiny pink candles. Mrs. Earl Carbaugh, sister of Mrs. Forster, assisted her in receiving the small guests, among whom were Miss Lois McCracken, Miss Audrey Cowin, Mr. Maurice Cowin, Miss Betty Barnhill, Miss Frances Ann Tansill, Mr. Tom Moore and Mr. Charles Tebbs. The children were taken to the theater of Wardman Park Hotel where films of Charlie Chaplin and Mickey Mouse were shown for their amusement.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Florio del Mar will leave Washington on Wednesday for Maine, whence they will go to Quebec, Canada. In September they will go to York Harbor, Me., to remain until the middle of September, when they will return to their Washington home.

Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson will go to York Harbor in August for several weeks and plan to meet Mr. and Mrs. Del Mar there. Capt. Jackson's sister, Mrs. Deming Jarvis, is already established at York Harbor.

George Sutton Marries Miss Stuntz, Pianist.

The marriage of Miss Lois Isabelle Stuntz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arba Tennsyon Stuntz, to Mr. George O'Neal Sutton, of Washington, son of Mr. George W. Sutton, of Tennessee, took place Saturday at 1:30 o'clock in the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, Bishop William F. McDowell, resident Bishop of Washington, officiating.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a white lace gown with a hat of straw and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Little Lois Helen Stuntz, niece of the bride, was the flower girl, and carried a basket filled with pink rose petals.

A reception for close friends and relatives followed the ceremony at the bride's home. Later in the afternoon, Mr. Sutton and his bride left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a brown silk suit with brown and white accessories. They will be at home after August 10, at the Broadmoor.

The bride is well known in music circles as a pianist and organist, and is a member of the Mu Phi Epsilon National Musical Sorority.

Family Now on Western Trip, Paying Visit to National Parks.

Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, who left Washington in the spring, shortly after adjournment of Congress, to go to their home in Michigan, near Detroit, are now on a trip through the Western States.

At present they are making a tour of the national parks, and are accompanied by their daughter, Miss Betty Couzens; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Yaw, of Detroit, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Couzens, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byrnes.

They plan to return to their farm near Pontiac, Mich., about the middle of August, when they will be joined by their other son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Jefferies Chewning, jr., of Washington, and their small son.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Yaw, the latter formerly Miss Madeline Couzens, are at their grandparents' farm during their parents' absence. There will be a family reunion when all the Couzens children and grandchildren will be together for the first time, young William Chewning being too young to have had the opportunity of meeting his relatives before.

William Gwynn Named To Riga Legation.

Mr. William M. Gwynn, who recently has been appointed third secretary at the United States Legation in Riga, has planned to journey to his new post early in August, following a month's leave of absence. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Gwynn, who is with him in Paris.

A student for three years at the School of Oriental Languages in Paris, Mr Gwynn has spent much of his time in the study of Russian and has mastered the language to such a degree that his appointment was made by the State Department.

Miss Tina Wollberg and Miss Elizabeth Kohner have recently returned from Virginia Beach.

Senator Henry F. Ashurst, of Arizona, sailed Saturday from New York on the Atlantic Transport Liner Minnetonka for Europe.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF July 20 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:40 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:45 a. m. to noon and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Planetary influences on July 20 will retard progress, deject the atmosphere and set pessimism adrift. Interests in all directions will be hung up. Only a small amount of travel is indicated. Difficulties will arise in love affairs.

The child born on this July 20 will have a bright, happy disposition. It will have a very intuitive and prophetic nature, and will be self-confident and self-reliant. It will have very decisive and convincing ways of expressing itself. More than the usual success is prognosticated for it.

Born on July 20, you are a man or woman of the true pioneer breed. Your horoscopical picture is a pleasing one, as to your personal qualifications, to your share of success and to your gifts of fortune. You do not tackle life sitting in an armchair, but you go after the things you want. You bring to bear the same qualities of daring, fervor and self-reliance to the planning of a campaign in the field or the home. You have the faculty of leadership and you are a genius for opportunity.

You are not a one-role person, but at once the efficient worker—society's favorite—the sympathetic friend—the jolly sportsman—and the serious student. Your multiplicity of interests keep you busy, happy, healthy and keen. You love the open air and prefer country to city life.

A July 20 man is master in his own home, without being overbearing or tyrannous; a true prop for the family. He is generous, but not extravagant; orderly, but not fussy; a respecter of other people's opinions, yet having the courage of his own convictions; clever, but sensible. A July 20 woman will be an administrator of justice within the home, a helpmate to her husband, and an every-present providence to her children.

Successful people born July 20:

James C. Derby, publisher.

Augustin Daly, dramatist and theatrical manager.

Josiah H. Penniman, educator.

Amos Tuck French, banker.

Victor Dowling, New York judge.

Robert A. Van Wyck, first mayor of Greater New York.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ALL those who enjoy mysteries will surely want to tune in this afternoon at 3:20 o'clock (WRC) on the first of six English programs of varied character which will be relayed by the British Broadcasting Corporation for attempted pickup and rebroadcast over WEAF network. The programs will be transmitted by shortwave station at Chelmsford, England.

Edgar Wallace, author of many detective stories, will talk on "The Snooper Speaks."

"Views and Interviews," a new presentation which will bring before the microphone interesting personalities of the stage and screen, athletes, writers and artists, will have its beginning tonight (WABC network 5 o'clock).

COMMANDER EUGENE F. McDONALD, Jr., president of one of Chicago's largest radio manufacturing companies, one of its most eligible bachelors and an explorer of note, has finally joined the benedicts. His marriage to Miss Elba Riddle, an Oklahoma girl, a direct descendant of President Zachary Taylor, has just been announced. Their honeymoon is being spent on Mr. McDonald's yacht, the Mizpah, cruising in the Georgian Bay country.

Many may remember having seen this beautiful yacht when it was anchored for some time at the Navy Yard a year or so ago.

The Irish tenor, John McCormack, will be heard from Hollywood tonight (9:30 WJZ net work).

Dennis King will sing tonight at 6:15 (WMAL) Joyce Kilmer's poem "Trees."

STATION WJSV with transmitter at Mount Vernon Hills and studio at Alexandria, Va., has opened new offices in the Washington Building. Leigh E. Ore is in charge.

Mr. Ore was formerly connected with the Times at Erie, Pa., later a partner in the Yount Advertising Agency. He came to WJSV from WLBW at Oil City, a 1,000-watter of the Columbia Chain.

Splash! Radio Joe will stage Federal Employes Water Carnival night over WMAL tomorrow night.

Tito Coral, a young Spanish baritone, who began his singing in the Seville Cathedral, will be featured in a program tonight at 9 o'clock (WMAL).

James C. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board will speak on "The Truth About the Wheat Situation," at 10 o'clock tonight (WMAL).

"Singin' Sam," former minstrelman with Al G. Fields, will make his debut in an Eastern program at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

THERE will be so many leaders available for the program dedicated to American Bandmasters Association by the Goldman Band Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock from New York over WJZ net that all of them will not get a chance. However, one of them who has been asked to conduct is Lieut. Charles Benter, leader of the United States Navy Band.

Others who will appear on the program will be Lieut. J. J. Gagnier, of the Royal Grenadier Band, Montreal, and Peter Buys, conductor of the Municipal Band, of Hagerstown, Md.

One of Rufus King's detective dramas centering around Lieut. Valcour, entitled, "Somewhere in This House," will be presented during two half-hour broadcasts tonight at 8 p. m. and Wednesday, July 22, at 8:30 p. m. (WMAL).

HENRIETTA ADDITON, sixth deputy police commissioner, in charge of the Crime Prevention Bureau of the New York Police Department, will be the first woman commissioner to broadcast, speaking this afternoon on "Welfare Work of the Police Department and Crime Prevention (WMAL, 4:30 p. m.)

A-Interprets the MODE

Delightful frock and bolero of black and powder blue eyelet-embroidered linen for summer dining. (Courtesy of Champcommunal, Paris).

New York, July 19.

IT ISN'T the sort of hat you have this year, but the way you wear it that counts! Not that the hats are in any way negligible, my deahs, but the trick about them is to wear them properly and piquantly. It's just ruinous to the sweetest hat in the world if you just "put it on" and let it go at that!

These hats of today, with their lovely materials, their unusual trimmings and romantic shapes, have to be put on the head "just so" to attain their full perfection. Have you noticed how they all tip—the large brimmed ones gracefully swooping down to one shoulder, and the small ones descending low over one eye? And when you stop to think about it, this very difference in the way the hats are worn is the outstanding reason for their success.

Now that we have reached midsummer, and look about us at the hats, we see that they are still equally divided between large and small, but that they are running much more to trimming than they did earlier. We see hats of the "Empress Eugenie" influence—small, romantic little affairs, of finest black straws, dipping low over one side of the forehead, and high on the back of the head, and with charming curled plumes or dainty, multicolored flowers for trimming. On the other hand, we see the wide-brimmed hats of panama or leghorn or straw lace, with the brims cut irregularly or pleated at one side, the whole hat tipped to one side, and trimmed with feathers or flowers above and below the brim, most often in back. And in this type of hat, I recently saw a very chic ornament—an odd, square strass earring on a fine platinum chain, but instead of attaching to Miladi's ear, it hung from the hat itself!

* * * * *

"Why is it, I wonder, that women have been somewhat slow in embracing the new mode for embroidered linens and cottons, this summer?" asked one of my readers. Wel-l-l-l, my deah, it may have been because they thought such fabrics insipid—which is far from the case! For instance, what could be more interesting and unusual than the dinner frock and bolero that I sketch for you today? This is from Champcommunal, of black and powder blue eyelet embroidered linen. 'N' isn't the skirt an attractive length and fullness, 'n' the bolero quaint with its short, scalloped sleeves? The flower at the shoulder of the bolero is black eyelet-embroidered linen, and the belt patent leather for chic and contrast! And the wide, plain black suede gloves were sold as an integral part of the outfit!

And the hat designed to be worn with this ensemble was the smart turban I sketch above, also of black and powder blue eyelet linen, handled in the smartest, most sophisticated manner.

* * * * *

The wise woman will make use of these eylet and solid embroidered fabrics this summer—and the very chic woman will use such materials unusually!

* * * * *

When is a plain maid a French maid, and why? Does any woman know how to have the constant services of a perfect French maid at no dollars and less cents per day? O-h-h, it isn't so hard to figure out, if you'll think about it. 'N' I'll help you to the extent of telling you that if you'll send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Washington Post you'll get this week's leaflet of helpful hints that tell how to make any maid into a French one, or how to do a French maid's dollar-saving tricks yourself!

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

IRISES, DELPHINIUMS AND ASTERS.

THE irises have been most lovely this season. I have heard no complaints about plants not blooming and few about their being attacked by borers, for all of which I am thankful.

Any time during the next six weeks you may lift and divide your irises, provided they are of the bearded varieties.

The Japanese varieties need dividing every three or four years. This work should be done as soon after they have finished flowering as convenient. Lift the crowns carefully and separate them with a sharp knife. The Japanese should always be set deeper than the bearded kinds. The Japanese iris delights in water when in bloom, but not at other times during the year. These are the irises that do not prefer a limestone soil, as do the bearded kinds.

Do not neglect to sow the seed of delphiniums as soon as they are ripe for blooming plants of the ordinary varieties next summer. These will bloom beautifully next season, but if you want prize-winning spikes better secure divisions of selected strains of plants. Remember that all delphiniums like plenty of sun and they demand a rich, deeply prepared friable, cool loam. Moisture will increase the size of the spikes and of the individual flowers.

Delphiniums should be divided every three years in order to keep them from exhausting the soil and becoming too compact in growth. The double sorts, which produce no seed, may be rooted from cuttings.

Do not forget to go over your asters each day. If you see a plant that is drooping or turning yellow, uproot it at once and burn it. When looking over your plants keep a close watch for the tarnish bug, which is such a relentless enemy of all annual asters. It punctures the growing tips of the asters in hot weather. The best way to check the activities of the tarnish bug is to spray the plants with nicotine or to dust them with air-slaked lime. Spraying the seedlings with Bordeaux mixture on the under sides of the leaves will act as a preventive of rust.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and cream. Beat three minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Shape into two rolls, 1½ inches in diameter. Chill 24 hours or longer. Use sharp knife, cut off thin slices and bake 12 minutes in moderate oven.

Hollywood Newlyweds Prefer to Live in Texas

Amarillo, Tex., July 19 (U.P.).—No tangled marital affairs for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ellis. Before their marriage they were Diana Brent and Alan Paull, of Hollywood, Calif.

Ellis now is owner of a pipe company and Mrs. Ellis keeps house. "It is much easier to stay in love—away from Hollywood," they said.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Playing Fair.

DEAR Miss MacDonald: I think I have never disagreed with you before. But in the advice you give Unsuccessful Lover I fear we differ. Did you take the girl of the question into the matter? You tell him to "make the girl his business" and persist until he wins, as she must be interested since she accepts gifts and goes out with him.

I am in the same position that Unsuccessful Lover's girl is, and I think I realize just why she treats him as nothing more than a friend. He is nothing more than a friend. The young man I have in mind is wonderful to me. He takes me places, gives me small gifts (only small ones as I would not allow any other kind, and know that he is too refined to give them), and tries to show his regard in every way for me. Now, Miss MacDonald, I appreciate everything that he does for me and I am most certainly aware of his regard for me, but try if I would for one thousand years I could most certainly not return anything more than friendship. Have I told him this? Indeed, yes. But like the dauntless male—like Unsuccessful Lover—he keeps on and on and on. Sometimes I weary of it not a little. He is jealous and I am sure that he has no right to be, as I have never in my attitude toward him treated him more than an old acquaintance. I am also attending a university and in the university is a young man that I like a great deal. One with whom I have many things in common. But, Miss MacDonald, would not condemn a man because he has not had a university training, and if I judge Unsuccessful Lover's girl rightly I don't think she would either. Perhaps she tried to show Unsuccessful Lover that night of the party that she did not care for him the way he wanted her to. Not a very kind way or a very tactful way, but what is a young woman to do? I have tried to be kind and tactful with my friend also, but all to no avail. I almost feel at times that I shall have to revert to the primitive and knock him over the head.

Of course, Miss McDonald, I have too high a regard for your advice to say you are wrong. Perhaps you are right; nine chances out of ten you are right. But I am simply letting you know how the other side might stand—as my side does stand. The girl could be myself very easily, as I am in exactly the same circumstance.

Please let me say right here that I do feel for Unsuccessful Lover—I feel for my friend also. But what can I do? Really, sometimes it puzzles me. Perhaps this is not a very consoling answer to Unsuccessful Lover, but I am asking you and the public in general just what kind of harmless yet successful remedy can be concocted for these unrequited lovers? I am sure there is a nice girl waiting around the corner for Unsuccessful Lover just as there is one waiting for my friend. A girl far more suited, and far more appreciative than I am, or the girl of my kind. We can't love where we are so unsuited to each other, and Unsuccessful Lover's Girl can see that we are not suited for these men. We know instinctively, but we just don't know how to get rid of them painlessly.

I am sorry I took up so much paper, but it is a problem that I would like to have solved. Will you help me?

WONDERER.

There is no way of rejecting a man definitely and painlessly too, but the definite way is the kinder way in the end. I am certain that if you will express yourself as clearly to your unwelcome lover as you have to me he will understand and eventually recover from his disappointment.

But so long as you accept gifts and go about with him, the man is perfectly justified in assuming that there is yet hope. Your attitude says so, whatever your words may say, and so long as there is one spark of hope a man is entitled to go on pleading his cause. Definitely repulsed, only a moron would persist, but far from repulsing advances, you accept and entertain them.

I agree with you that you are the girl referred to in the boy's letter. And I hope that he sees your reply and begins at once to plan for the real girl who is, as you say—just around the corner.

Play fair, my dear!

World's Smallest Dog Believed in Museum

Paris, July 19 (U.P.).—The world's smallest dog is said to have been acquired by the Maritzburg Museum. It is a dwarf brown and white pointer, and although it lived for three years it never grew longer than six and a half inches from nose to tail tip. Its head was one and a quarter inches long and an inch broad, and its hind legs were slightly less than two inches long.

Expedition Is to Seek Secrets of Sumeria

Kansas City, July 19 (A.P.).—Seeking traces of the Sumerian civilization, buried by the sands more than 3,000 years before Christ, an expedition financed by the William Rockhill Nelson trust of Kansas City will set to work in Persia this summer.

Records of the warlike Scythians also will be sought.

The site of operations will be the Tokhmakh tepe, on the Turkoman plains north of Astrabad, by the Caspian Sea.

F. R. Wulsin, museum curator of Oriental art of the University of Pennsylvania, has been loaned to head the expedition.

Men Are Neither Suddenly Rich Nor Suddenly Good

So one sage observed. But from our side of the grocery counter, it looks as if what a man gets to eat is a great help to both his finances and his disposition.

For we've yet to meet the man who can eat a lean meal and be the happier for it. And we've never known high prices for even the fanciest food to raise either the spirits or the family fortune.

And having noted this, we haven't stopped there. We're promoting digestions and therefore dispositions, by selling only the best food; and we're promoting savings and therefore bank accounts, by selling it at the low prices made possible only by our huge business and tiny profit.

OFFICIALS PLANNING REAPER CELEBRATION

Pageant, Barbecue and Other Events on Program at Blacksburg, Va.

Blacksburg, Va., July 19 (A.P.).—Final preparations have been started by officials of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute for the centennial celebration here July 29 of the invention of the reaper by McCormick.

Details have been completed for the pageant, barbecue and the speaking program for the event.

The schedule for the celebration, as arranged by President Julian A. Burruss, Director John R. Hutcheson and Prof. S. E. Seitz, of V. P. I., and H. A. Kellar, of the McCormick Historical Association, includes a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock for invited guests.

Huge Pageant Planned.

A band concert and a showing of the movie "Romance of the Reaper," which was filmed at the Walnut Grove Farm near Steele's Tavern, where the reaper was invented; exhibition of working models of McCormick harvesting machines; public program of addresses, barbecue will follow, and at 8:30 o'clock, a pageant.

The pageant depicting the evolution of grain harvesting methods will be the high point of the celebration. It will be held in the stadium from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. More than 300 characters, dressed in the costumes of various periods from 2000 B. C. to A. D. 1931 will participate. The cast will include a professional ballet of twenty girls now touring the United States and especially trained for this pageant.

Fred Essig, pageant director of Chicago, is in Blacksburg making arrangements for the pageant. He is having the costumes, stage scenery and electrical equipment made in Chicago especially for this production.

Local Talent Being Trained.

Donald MacDonald 3d, well-known amateur theatrical producer, is training the local talent for the pageant. He is going daily to Radford to train 75 students at Radford State Teachers College, who are to have parts in the pageant. He is also training about 60 persons from Blacksburg. The professional actors will be coached by Mr. Essig in Chicago and brought here in time for the dress rehearsals July 27 and 28.

Special music scores have been written for the pageant, which is divided into six scenes. Full-size old machines, showing the various steps in the evolution of harvesting equipment will be used in actual operation on a 60-foot stage, which will be built on the football field facing the west stands.

Canal May Reopen In Coming Week

Army Engineer Directing Clearing After Barges Halt Traffic.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chesapeake City, Md., July 19.—The Chesapeake & Delaware Canal will probably be opened to traffic again some time this week, following the grounding of two barges east of St. Georges, Del., last Tuesday night, according to Col. Robert P. Howell, U. S. A., War Department district engineer for Wilmington, who is directing the work of clearing the canal.

Several derricks and tugs are working at top speed to remove the cargo of cinders carried by the barges, which were owned by the Eastern Transportation Co., of Baltimore. They were en route from the Wilmington plant of the Pyrites Co. to Sparrows Point, near Baltimore, when wind and current caused them to turn crosswise in the canal. When the tide went out the barges were left high and dry and the weight of the cinders caused them to split in two and block the passageway.

According to Roger Wolleyhan, agent here for the Ericcson Steamboat Co. of Philadelphia, the canal will not be opened before Tuesday or Wednesday. The Weems Line and the Green Line of Baltimore are also stopped from sending one boat a day, each way, between Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania Is Given English Pheasant Eggs

Harrisburg, Pa., July 19 (U.P.).—The Pennsylvania State Game Commission has turned to England for choice eggs of the Mongolian pheasant for development of the bird in the State woods.

The commission purchased 500 Mongolian pheasant eggs from the Gaybird Pheasant Farm, Great Missenden, Bucks, England. They will be incubated at the Fisher State Game Farm and the young birds will be distributed throughout the State in an effort to propagate the species.

Tiny English Church Condoles 10 Widows

London, July 19 (A.P.).—After being closed fourteen years, the smallest consecrated church in England has been reopened for service.

Established several generations ago, the church is attached to Bishop Wood's Almhouse to supply spiritual conscience to the "ten oldest widows resident in the almshouse."

It now is a mission for the rector or a nearby church, who receives $25 annually for conducting the services.

Bolling to Speak On Manassas Fight

Charlottesville Lawyer to Deliver Address at Annual Picnic.

Charlottesville, Va., July 19.—Albert S. Bolling, member of the Albemarle Bar, and former commander of the Virginia division, Sons of Confederate Veterans, will deliver an address at the annual picnic on the seventieth anniversary of the Battle of Manassas, to be held at the Henry House, on the battlefield, next Thursday.

Mr. Bolling, son of a Mosby veteran, is well versed in Confederate matters and with the great battlefields of the Civil War in this and other States from having personally inspected them with both Union and Confederate soldiers.

Around the Henry House occurred some of the hardest fighting in the first great battle of the War Between the States, and it was near there that Thomas J. Jackson received the sobriquet of "Stonewall."

ROAD IS TRAVERSED BY 23,500 VEHICLES

Capital - Alexandria Traffic Heaviest in Virginia, Records Reveal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 19.—According to a traffic map, prepared by the Virginia department of highways, the heaviest traveled section of road in the State is that between Washington and Alexandria, where 23,500 vehicles pass daily.

So large a number is hard to visualize, but some idea of the number may be gathered from the fact that if they were all small touring cars, standing bumper to bumper, they would reach from Alexandria to Fredericksburg, slightly more than 50 miles.

Because of this great volume of traffic between Washington and Alexandria it is surprising to note that there is more horse-drawn traffic between these points than anywhere else in the State. The total of horse-drawn vehicles averages 285 daily.

This stream of more than 23,000 vehicles diminishes sharply South of Alexandria, dropping off to 8,000 daily just outside of the city. It decreases further at Mount Vernon, and by the time it reaches the turn out for the Marine Barracks at Quantico has dropped to around 2,700 daily From there on to Fredericksburg local traffic builds up the stream again to nearly 4,000 cars and trucks.

An analysis of figures used in making up the map shows that August is the month of heaviest traffic, with Sunday the biggest day. Both rural and urban traffic reached these Sunday and August peaks. The rural traffic runs about 32 per cent over the average for the year during August.

The urban traffic, that is, all that is counted within ten miles of a city, runs about 65 per cent heavier than the weekly average on Sundays.

These traffic studies made by the Department of Highways, while of interest to the public, are of the greatest value to engineers, by enabling them to anticipate the needs of traffic on the highways and there by design roads to meet coming conditions it is said. Traffic experts, working from past records, estimated five years ago that traffic would double itself in about four or five years, and the counts in Virginia have verified their theory.

A movement has been started to beautify towns along the approaches to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park with native evergreen.

Poker Golf Makes Excitement Plenty

Innovation Is Evoking Varied Emotions on Canada Links.

Banff, Alta, July 19 (U.P.).—Poker-golf is the latest popular and unpopular game on the golf course here.

Each member of the foursome contributes to the pot old knives, ties, tees, I. O. U.'s, &c., low ball and high ball drawing first at each alternate hole from a deck stripped to the ten spot. No player can draw more than five cards. Last hole gets the joker and, of course, best hand gets the pot.

WASHINGTON BOYS C. M. T. C. LEADERS

Several Qualified as First-Class Pistol Shots at Fort Eustis, Va.

Washington youths, among the 900 enrolled at the C. M. T. C. at Fort Eustis, Va., are proving leaders in many of the activities, records at the camp show. Several have qualified as first-class pistol shots and one company composed mostly of residents of the District, was second in company competition. Boys from Washington also are proving leaders in camp athletics.

Among those who have qualified as first-class pistol marksmen are John E. Harrington, of 1700 Fifteenth street northwest; Co. A; Mark D. Woodward, 1821 Kilbourn place northwest, highest individual score in Co. G; Thomas J. Nally, 238 Thirteenth street northeast; Charles F. Sullivan, 137 Adams street northwest; Wilber A. Stevens, 714 Jefferson street northwest, and John W. Nally, 238 Thirteenth street northeast, all of Co. G. This outfit scored 76.16 per cent to place second in the company firing.

In the boxing tournament, Candidate Connor, of 1851 Columbia road northwest, of Co. G, won his bout and will enter the semifinals. Candidate Moncure, of 1334 Hamilton street northeast, also of Co. G, took first place in the 40-yard breast stroke and first in diving competition in the camp swimming meet.

Damage Suit Dismissed As Beyond Time Limit

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 19.—A suit for $10,000 damages, brought by H. D. Thomas against W. G. McEachern for injuries suffered by Mr. Thomas in an automobile accident March 12, 1930, was dismissed by Judge Lemuel F. Smith in circuit court yesterday because the plaintiff waited a year and a day instead of a year to bring charges.

Judge Smith ruled that one year following the accident was the maximum leeway allowed for action, and since the suit was not entered until March 12, 1931, it was dismissed. It was thus held that from March 12 to March 12, inclusive, is a year and a day. If Thomas had acted on March 11, 1931, his case would have been considered, it was stated.

Helen Arrives in London; Hints Return to Bucharest

London, July 19 A.P.).—Queen Helen of Roumania arrived in London tonight tired and wan after the long journey from Bucharest.

In a statement given out after her arrival, through the medium of her principal lady-in-waiting, she said her journey abroad had been made in agreement with King Carol and she would return to Roumania in October.

The Roumanian legation, however, sent no representative to meet the queen at the station.

"We do not know officially that she is coming," said a legation official a few minutes before her arrival. "All we know is what we read in the papers."

It was not to be supposed, however, that the queen's family would share in the official attitude. The first figure Helen saw as she stepped from the train, accompanied by her brother, former King George of Greece, was her mother, the former Dowager Queen of Greece.

The two royal ladies took each other in their arms and kissed tenderly.

Other members of the Greek royal family also were present, including 11-year-old Princess Alexandra, daughter of Princess Aspasia. As if the little girl brought back to Queen Helen the resemblance of her son Michael of the same age, whom she had left behind, she made much of the child, and when the princess was separated from her in the crowd she ordered the chauffeur to wait until she could bid her au revoir before driving away from the station.

When the car finally left the station, the queen drove to a quiet west end hotel, where she is staying temporarily.

It was in this hotel that the lady-in-waiting later chatted about the queen's desire for quiet and peace. She then issued a statement written by Queen Helen which read:

"I have come abroad for a holiday, to pay a visit to my family and to take a cure.

"This journey has been taken in mutual understanding with the king and I will be returning to Roumania at the end of October to be back for my son's birthday.

"This, I hope, will definitely end the annoying and harmful press campaign of these last few months, as it is most unpleasant to me. I always have and always will disapprove of being used as a subject of sensational press comment."

Creek Is Dragged For Drowned Girl

Victim, Unable to Swim, Got Beyond Depth While Wading.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 19.—County officials, State police and summer campers dragged the waters of Town Creek, a tributary of the Potomac, near here today for the body of Josephine Gingatelli, 17, of Eckhart, Md., who drowned Saturday night. Rose Gingatelli, 19, a sister, who was rescued and revived, was improving in the Allegany Hospital, Cumberland, where she was brought from Sliders Beach, a summer cottage colony, 20 miles from here.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday the Gingatelli sisters went wading. Neither could swim. Rose went over her depth and Josephine attempted to pull her out. Their cries brought Ernest Munger, 15, living nearby who finally succeeded in getting Rose out of the water, but Josephine sank and disappeared.

A posse under Sheriff H. A. Hotchkiss, dragged for the body with hooks until daybreak. Scores of swimmers from the city and campers joining in the hunt. The drowned girl was a daughter of Mrs. Terese Allagretti, a widow, who conducts a small store in the mining village of Eckhart, this county.

Man Dies, Family Hurt in Car Crash

Wife of Atlanta Tourist and Two Children Injured; Two Escape.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 19.—H Harrison, 55, of Atlanta, Ga., was fatally injured, his wife seriously hurt and two small children less seriously injured last night when their automobile plunged over the mountainside 8 miles west of Franklin, W. Va., on the Circleville pike.

Harrison died en route to a hospital here, suffering a fractured skull. Mrs. Harrison remains unconscious as the result of a fractured skull. The two children suffered cuts and bruises. Two sons, aged 18 and 12, escaped injury.

The car plunged over a curve and rolled down the mountainside for a distance of 150 feet, landing on its top. The boys managed to extricate the other occupants. Efforts to locate friends or relatives of the stricken family have proved unavailing. Reports were they were traveling in a party with another car, but these people have not been located.

Farmer in Virginia Ends Life by Shot

Robert Beattie Kills Self Near Charlottesville; Funeral Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 19.—After slashing an artery in his left arm, Robert Beattie, a farmer residing in the north section of the county, went to a spot near the home of his sister, Mrs. E. F. Garrison, last evening, sent a bullet into his right temple, and died instantly.

Members of the Garrison family had just seated themselves at the supper table when they heard a shot. A servant, dispatched, found the 52-year-old farmer with his pistol in his hand. Mr. Beattie, a native of Scotland, came to Virginia from Minnesota about 23 years ago.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Laurel Hill Baptist Church.

Capital Driver's Auto Kills Man on Highway

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 19.—Charles H. Blank, of Yellow Springs, near Frederick, was struck by an automobile driven by Theodore Otte, 5231 Georgia avenue, Washington, late last night and almost instantly killed. The accident occurred on the National Pike, two miles West of here.

Otte and his family were returning to Washington and Blank was walking along the highway in the opposite direction. His chest was crushed and he died while being taken to the city hospital. A bottle filled with whisky and one which had contained liquor but was broken were alleged to have been found in Blank's pockets.

Following an investigation by police, Magistrate Alton Y. Bennett, acting coroner, declared an inquest unnecessary and exonerated Otte. Blank is survived by his wife and six children.

ENGLAND ELIMINATES U. S. IN DAVIS CUP TENNIS UPSET;

BROWN HERO OF MOUND DUEL AS NATS BEAT TIGERS, 2-1

Southpaw Yields 4 Hits, Drives in Deciding Run To Win Pitchers' Battle

Herring Is Victim of Nats' Bunched Hits in 5th Inning.

Cronin's Error Leads to Only Score Off Brown's Slants.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AN old-fashioned pitching duel between Lloyd Brown and Art (Kippered) Herring was the menu served about 7,000 of the faithful at Griffith Stadium yesterday, with the resident southpaw having the better of the argument and being credited with a 2-to-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers. As the leading Mackmen idled, the Nat triumph, their second straight over the Bengals and their fourth straight in a row, enabled Walter Johnson's charges to gain half a game in the race and to cut down the Quaker lead to an even seven games.

Brown was easily the day's hero. He not only held the enemy to four hits, scattered in as many innings, and to one unearned run, but he also singled home a run, which was his team's margin of victory. He worked smoothly throughout, walking but one and fanning two and, except in Detroit's scoring inning, started by Cronin's two-base error, not a Tiger was able to pass first-base.

Nats Pack Half of Hits In Fifth.

Herring, fresh from a victory over the Mackmen, also pitched well—well enough to win the ordinary game—but Brown's flinging made yesterday's anything but ordinary. The Nationals could garner but six hits off the slants of Harris' little right-hander, but half of these were packed in the fifth frame when the Nats made their brace of markers. Except in this inning, third base was undiscovered territory for the home team, with only one other progressing as far as second, Kuhel stealing after having coaxed a pass in the second.

All of the ten hits made during the pastime were singles, with Catcher Roy Spencer the only member of either cast to get more than one. He smashed out two clean drives, Brown, West, Harry Rice and Bluege getting

TIGERS FACE MARBERRY TODAY

Hogsett, Rookie Ace, Harris' Choice for Third Game.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

DETROIT and Washington will battle this afternoon in the third game of the current series, with Fred Marberry doing the flinging for the home team. Pilot Bucky Harris plans to turn over his mound duties to Elon Hogsett, the Indian who recently was recalled from the Toronto Internationals.

This speedy southway was quite a pitcher for the Tigers last year, but had trouble gtting his joints limbered up this season and was shunted to the Maple Leafs, where he suddenly started winning. Since his return to the big show, he has broken even in two starts. Victory for the Nats would be the third straight over the Tigers.

Rookie Southpaw Joins Nats.

A rookie southpaw pitcher, answering to the name of Warren (Lefty) Carey, was purchased by the Nationals, and reported to Manager Walter Johnson at the conclusion of yesterday's game. He was the star on the Washington College nine last season, later pitched for the Rock Hall Club, of the Chesapeake Bay League, and still later was signed by the Youngstown Club of the Middle-Atlantic League, from which club he was purchased by the Nats.

Carey, who hails from Ocean City, Md., played professional ball under the name of Casey last summer. Connie Mack, of the Athletics, picked him up, signed him, and took him on the last Western trip only to later learn that he was the property of Joe Cambria, who has moved his Hagerstown Club to Youngstown. The Nats have a working agreement with Cambria and so were able to obtain the southpaw's services.

According to President Clark Griffith, Carey has lots of stuff but needs seasoning. He has been brought here so that Manager Walter Johnson may give him the "once over" and then probably will be placed with some minor league club where he can get the work and experience he needs.

The error bug seems to be getting in some deadly work in Washington, the Nationals, rated one of the best-

Sharkey 2 to 1 Choice Over Walker

American Championship at Stake on Wednesday.

N. Y. Solons Change Minds as to Status of Schmeling.

By DIXON STEWART.

NEW YORK, July 19 (U.P.).—The first "American heavyweight championship" fight since the introduction of boxing gloves will be staged at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday with Jack Sharkey, of Boston, defending the title against Mickey Walker, of Rumson, N. J., in a fifteen-round bout.

The "American championship" is a new title in boxing, having been originated by the New York Athletic Commission after Max Scmeling won from Jack Sharkey last summer to take the world's heavyweight away from the United States for the first time since 1880 when Paddy Ryan defeated Joe Goss, of England, to become undisputed bare knuckle champion of the world.

Goss was succeeded as world champion by John L. Sullivan, who continued as king of the heavyweights after boxing gloves were introduced and the Marquis of Queenbury rules adopted in 189. His successors, from James J. Corbett down through Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, all were Americans and while the world's championship remained in the United States there was no thought of an "American championship."

Sharkey Outstanding American.

With Schmeling's ascension to the world title, Sharkey, who is outstanding among the American contenders, became the logical candidate for the American title and that honor, if it is an honor, was given him by acclaim.

After Max Schmeling was suspended in New York and his title declared vacated, the New York commission declared that it would recognize the winner of a bout between Sharkey and any worthy opponent as world champion, but the manner in which Schmeling has been accepted by the public since his victory over Young Stribling resulted in the commission abandoning this plan. Rather than set up a pretender to the throne, the commission decided to recognize Sharkey officially as American champion and Schmeling as champion of Germany, with the world's title remaining vacant.

Promoter Jimmy Johnston still is advertising the Sharkey-Walker bout as a "world's championship" affair, but the only title involved is the American championship.

Walker Convinces Many Critics.

Walker, although only a middleweight, has been extensively "ballyhooed" as a worthy foe for Sharkey and despite his 30-pound disadvantage in weight has convinced many boxing critics that he has a chance to win.

Sharkey, generally rated as second only to Schmeling, if not the best heavyweight in the game, apparently will have every physical advantage, and is a 2-to-1 favorite in the betting. He appears in fine condition and declares he not only plans to knock out Walker, but will then meet Tommy Loughran and Primo Carnera in an attempt to eliminate all other claimants and force a title bout with Schmeling.

Leonard, Dundee Advise Sharkey.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., July 19 (U.P.).—Abandoning his natural role of a clever, hard-hitting boxer in favor of a slugging attack, Jack Sharkey gave an unimpressive exhibition today against his sparring partners.

Two former world champions, Benny Leonard and Johnny Dundee, watched Sharkey go through his paces and after the workout they advised the Bostonian against trying to defeat Mickey Walker by slugging in the fifteen-round bout at Brooklyn Wednesday.

"Nobody can whip Sharkey if he boxes the way he fought Schmeling," said Leonard. "Jack acted today as though he believes all he will have to do is to tear in at Walker and clip him a few on the button. He would be very foolish to attempt those tactics and unless he fights in his usual style he stands an even chance of losing."

Walker Stops Bain.

Orangeburg, N. Y., July 19 (U.P.).—Mickey Walker made the most impressive showing of his training for Jack Sharkey today. The former world's welterweight and middleweight champion boxed six rounds with four sparring mates and climaxed the drill with a knockout of Abie Bain, Jersey light heavyweight.

Walker is in top condition and plans to complete his training tomorrow with a brief boxing workout.

Swenson Scores "Ace" On Rock Creek Course

J. Douglas Swenson yesterday entered "golfers' paradise" when he scored a hole-in-one on the Rock Creek Park course. Playing in a foursome with A. S. Christenson, Ezra Stevenson and A. B. Starr, he sank his tee shot in the fifth hole of the class A course. Par is 3 on this 98-yard hole.

Swenson has been playing golf only about three years but is what might be termed an addict and has made fast progress. Last year, he won the Utah State Society's tourney here.

MARKEY AND YEOMANS WINNERS

Capital Pair Annex Middle Atlantic Doubles Title.

Special to The Washington Post.

RICHMOND, Va., July 19.—The past week-end's series of Middle Atlantic doubles wats climaxed this afternoon on the clay courts of the Country Club of Virginia as Ed Yeomans and Bud Markey retained for Washington the title won by Considine and Mandam in 1930.

Following their semifinals victory of the morning over Jacobson and Nebner, of Baltimore, at 66—4, 7—5, 6—1, the top seeded team from the District of Columbia overcame another Baltimore combination, Alex Keiles and Elmer Rudy, to gain the championship in 6—2, 6—4, 9—7 sets.

The intense heat of the afternoon may have contributed much to the listless play characterizing the finals, which, as an exhibition of tennis, was hardly on a parity with the preceeding third round match in the upper bracket.

Points Decided At Net.

A great balance of the points were decided at the net, either being scored on placements or thrown away. What back court stroking was done for the Washington pair fell largely to the lot of Markey, and frequently both players advanced to the net to attempt overhead kills or chop alley lines returns. Keiles undertook the forecourt assignment for the Baltimore public parks champion doubles team and played an erratic game, alternating netted shots with occasionally brilliant recoveries.

After establishing a two-set lead, Yeomans and Markey, University of North Carolina No. 2 man, slumped in the early third as Keiles and Rudy ran through the first four games. Until the tide turned in the fifth, serious opposition was encountered only in the second game, which went to Deuce half a dozen times. Recovering from the slump as the set was all but lost, the District of Columbia pair coordinated at the net to put play on a 5-all basis and then draw out a favorable 9-to-7 set.

German Auto Race Won by Caracciola

Adenau, Germany, July 19 (A.P.).—Rudolf Caracciola, German pilot, won the grand prize of Germany for automobiles today, run on the Nuerburg ring, most interesting and most dangerous race track in Europe.

The winner, piloting a Mercedes Benz, led throughout the race and covered the approimate 313 miles in four hours, 38 minutes, 10 seconds.

The Frenchmen, Chiron and Varzi were second and third and the Italian, Nuvolari, fourth. The only American competitor, R. Shafer, dropped out after two hours and a half.

More than 100,000 spectators stood in a pouring rain to watch the race.

3,000 Watch Tilden Beat Kozeluh

"Big Bill" Triumphs 7-9, 6-4, 6-2, 1-6, 6-4 at Wardman.

Pare Takes Set From Hunter; Doubles Lost by Tilden.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WHILE some 3,000 joyfully warm, garrulously applauding tennis fans filled two bleacher stands to the groaning point and an unestimated crowd lined the balconies or climbed the stately sycamores at Wardman Park Hotel, Bill Tilden yesterday turned in a driving slambang finish to beat Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovak pro, in a five-set match in which the tennis ranged from the sublime to the ridiculous and back to the sublime.

The scores were 7—9, 6—4, 6—2, 1—6, 6—4. Preceding this match Emmett Pare, a former Georgetown University boy, turned in a 6—4 victory over Frank Hunter in a one-set crowd warmer The feature attraction was ended, just like in vaudeville, by an acrobatic act in which Pare and Bobby Seller beat Tilden and Hunter, 7—5, 6—4.

Full House Long Before Play Starts.

In $1, $2 and $3 lots tennis folk began streaming through the hotel lobby shortly after noon to requisition seats for matches which were not due to start until 2:30 o'clock. Forty-five minutes before the players put in an appearance there were more people in the stands than witnessed any of the three days' Davis Cup tie between American and Argentina last May at Chevy Chase.

Tilden and Kozeluh initiated Washington audiences to professional tennis in gala style. Tilden was in all his pristine glory, now a sweeping imitation of the poetry of motion, then a snivvering old grandmother protesting a line decision, or glaring at innocent bystanders whose only crime was that they clapped at the wrong time. Either way, the gaunt master held the attention of the crowd and earned its mightiest applause.

Kozeluh was a sensation to local audiences. He audaciously outstroked Tilden through at least half of the match, and looked like the winner as he went to 2—1 in the fifth set, in a brilliant exhibition of backhand driving—driving which cracked Tilden's "world's best backhand" wide open. Kozeluh went on, making himself a huge favorite with the crowds. He groaned loudly in Czechoslovakian when he missed. He yelled "Good shot!" when he made a good shot. He had to have a cramp rubbed out of his arm in the last set, and he capped a great display of tennis and hippodroming by hitting a ball fully 200 feet in the air, dancing around underneath it in approved soccer form, and then bouncing it off his head.

Ice Water Douses Keeps Players Going.

Only recourse to buckets of ice water down their backs kept players going in the harder stages of the match. They ran each other unmercifully, both staying in the backcourt as much as they could, Tilden sticking to straight flat driving and Kozeluh mixing his classic continental strokes with undercut dropshots, which dug into the perfect court and bounced backward, most times leaving Tilden a disdainful figure in backcourt.

Tilden won by letting loose the most dynamic serving and volleying of the match after winning Kozeluh's service in the critical seventh game of the fifth set to lead, 4—3. His first serve, that mighty flat head-high shot, aced Kozeluh twice in the next game, and the two serves he did return, Tilden answered with

Tilden to Play Here Again in September

Big Bill Tilden, world's professional champion, who nosed out Karel Kozeluh, former titleholder, yesterday at Wardman Park Hotel in a five-set match, will return to the hotel courts in September, it was announced yesterday by George E. Allen, general manager of the hotel, and Burt Cortelyou, manager of Tilden Tennis Tours, Inc.

Tilden's opponent will be Albert Burke, for a decade the best resident professional in Europe. Emmett Pare and Bobby Seller also will accompany the former amateur champion. Seating arrangements, it is already planned, will be doubled over yesterday's capacity.

FRED PERRY.

beaten here both by Austin and Perry.

It was a gusty, rainy afternoon for tennis. A morning downpour soaked the burnt clay court of Roland Garros Stadium and showers continued throughout the play forcing a halt of ten minutes in the third set of the Perry-Wood match.

The slowness of the playing surface detracted somewhat from the effectiveness of the Americans' speed, but the British victory none the less was well earned and congratulations by the American nonplaying captain, Sam Hardy, offered the British leader, Herbert Roper Barrett, were hearty and sincere.

Through three days of play, Hardy and Barrett, each old Davis Cup campaigners, sat on either side of the umpire's chair—Hardy tall, lean and gray, like Uncle Sam; Barrett, bald, ruddy and stout, like John Bull.

Wood's defeat was largely due to his immaturity and nervousness. He has the strokes and every action typifies the spirit of the game, and on the whole he was sounder than Shields. He won the only set America got today. Seeming to be all legs and arms, he played his all-round game of varied stroke and pace. He raced for every possible shot, but his attacks were unavailing against Perry's play.

Wood opened with a flash against his rival, who didn't return a single shot in the opening game, but it was a brief lead for the Englishman broke Wood's service in the third game for a 2-1 lead. Perry served a love game to lead 4-2 and again broke the American's service in the ninth game for the set.

In the second set, Wood always was fighting from behind as games seesawed to deuce. In the fourteenth game, Wood saved at set point and then took an 8-7 lead. He lost the next but won the seventeenth and eighteenth for the set, scoring chiefly on desperate and risky rushes to the net.

Wood attempted to continue the offensive in the third set but Perry led all through and wound up with a love service game. The fourth and deciding set went the same way, the Englishman running out from two-all.

While Wood's defeat was a disappointment to American supporters it was not considered serious as Shields took the court against Austin and thundered into a 5-2 lead. Seemingly unaware that court surface was slow, Shields pounded and hammered his smaller opponent unmercifully and looked as if he would blast the Englishman off the court.

Shields Changes Tactics.

In the eighth game, however, Shields suddenly changed his tactics, shut off steam and on the softer, more delicate play Austin found his stride, beginning with a love game, grabbed three straight to carry the score to deuce. Shields struck an erratic streak, netting and overhitting repeatedly. From 6-all, Austin scored another love game and then Shields, at a critical moment, double faulted on set point to give the Englishman the set at 8—6.

Austin was playing far finer tennis than he showed against Shields at Wimbledon and he continued it. Shields crashed through Austin's service in the opening game of the second set but it was the only time he led, even his favorite backhand and forehand drives down the line were going astray and Austin finished off the second set at 6—3 with a clean cross court volley.

Playing with extreme caution, Shields again took the opening game

Tilden and Hunter Amazed At Defeat of U. S. Netmen

(Associated Press.)

ENGLAND'S defeat of the youthful United States Davis Cup team yesterday surprised America's two veterans of international amateur tennis play, William T. Tilden 2d and Frank Hunter, who appeared in a series of exhibition tennis matches at Wardman Park Hotel.

Tilden, who, with Hunter, recently turned professional and now is professional champion, was almost incredulous upon being told Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood had been beaten.

"No!" he exclaimed. "The English won both of the last two singles matches? That's amazing.

"I had recognized a distinct possibility that the English might win, but I thought the match was safe after we won the doubles yesterday."

Tilden said Fred Perry's win over Wood was the surprise.

"After all," he pointed out, "Bunny Austin had Shields at two match points at Wimbledon. I look to see France retain the cup."

Hunter, who came here with Tilden and other professionals to play an exhibition match, said:

"I didn't think they'd do it." He recalled that both Shields and Wood had beaten their English opponents at Wimbledon.

Hunter's next remark was a tribute to his friend "Big Bill" Tilden.

"A Davis Cup match has never looked safe since Tilden left the field," he declared.

Pointing out that this was the first time the United States has failed to reach the challenge round since Tilden and "Little Bill" Johnston won the cup from Australia in 1920, Hunter said the defeat in his opinion did not mean that Shields and Wood were not of international tennis caliber.

"I think it shows simply that they needed a little more seasoning over there.

"I never had any hope of their beating the French. I know from experience that it is almost impossible to beat the French on their home courts without plenty of time in which to become acclimated."

Wood Is Apologetic For Davis Cup Loss

Paris, July 19 A.P.).—Their defeat by English racquet stars here today failed to shake the stout hearts of young Frank Shields and Sydney Wood. Both were solely disappointed with their play, but "next year" were two important words on every lip in the dressing rooms where the Americans gathered.

"Austin played great tennis," said Shields. "He fought every inch of the way. That's all there was to it."

Wood was the most apologetic of the two for he dropped both his singles matches. He felt the weight of defeat on his slender shoulders, but brightened up when Capt. Hardy reminded him he would have another chance next summer to swing his racquet in Davis Cup competition.

U. S. Not in Cup Finals First Time Since 1919

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—The elimination of the United States Davis cup tennis team by Great Britain at Paris today will leave America outside the challenge round for the first time since 1919.

It was in 1920 that Big Bill Tilden and Little Bill Johnston traveled to Auckland, N. Z., and won the Davis cup from Australia, 5 matches to none. America successfully defended the trophy the six succeeding years but finally lost it to France in 1927. Since then the United States has reached the challenge round every year until this one.

As a matter of fact, the American record for reaching the challenge round annually goes back to 1913 if the campaign of 1919 be disregarded. In that year, with the great war barely over, only six nations participated in the competition and the United States was not one of them. Australasia beat Great Britain in the final round that year, 4—1. There was no competition from 1915 to 1918 inclusive and in 1914 Australasia beat America in the final round. The preceding year, America had conquered Australasia, 5—0. Thus America, for the thirteen successive Davis cup campaigns in which it has participated, either has won the cup or been beaten in the challenge round.

Red Sox Again Down Indians in 12 Innings

Boston, July 19 (A.P.).—The Red Sox made it two straight from the Cleveland Indians by taking today's game, 6 to 5, in twelve innings. Rothrock's single over Averill's head brought Warstler in with the winning run.

The Sox got away to a five-run lead in the early innings, but Jack Russell, starting pitcher, was unable to hold it. The Indians scored four runs in the sixth to drive him from the mound.

McGraw Berates Heydler Following His Suspension

ST. LOUIS, July 19 (A.P.).—President John Heydler, of the National League, and Manager John J. McGraw, of the New York Giants, engaged in what witnesses described as a "heated verbal encounter" here today.

Notified by telegram this morning that he had been suspended for three days for using abusive language to Umpire Bob Clarke Saturday, McGraw, learning of Heydler's presence in St. Louis, went to Sportsmans Park and waited for him near the press gate just inside the park. When Heydler arrived, witnesses said, McGraw berated him because of his suspension.

McGraw's remarks were plainly audible even above the hubbub of the press gate. The Giant's fiery leader accused Heydler of "protecting an incompetent umpire" and cited several previous incidents in which Heydler took the side of the umpire against him (McGraw). McGraw then left the park, going to the Chase Hotel where the Giants are stopping.

Heydler said he would take no further action against McGraw. "The suspension, however, stands," he said. "Just because McGraw is vice president of the New York Club as well as its manager is no reason why he can have privileges on the bench. He was suspended because of the abusive language he used on Umpire Clarke."

McGraw's run in with Clarke was over a close play at first base. Clarke called Outfielder Fullis out and McGraw protested. The umpire then motionetd McGraw to leave the bench, but McGraw would not depart until several minutes later when the plate umpire, Pfirman, told him to go.

Heydler said there was no significance attached to his visit to St. Louis.

SMALLWOOD CHOICE TO BEAT GROVE AT FT. WASHINGTON

D. C. Welter Title at Stake

Grove in Comeback in 8-Round Feature Tonight.

McKenna-Kelly Meet in Semifinal; 32 Rounds Listed.

FINAL, EIGHT ROUNDS.
Joe Smallwood, Washington, vs. Harry "Kid" Grove, Washington (welterweights).
SEMIFINAL, EIGHT ROUNDS.
Sailor McKenna, Washington, vs. Andy Kelly, Baltimore (lightweights).
FOUR ROUNDS.
Frank Vance, Washington, vs. W. L. Tucker, Washington (light-heavyweights).
FOUR ROUNDS.
Henry Irving, Washington, vs. Fighting Dick, Charlotte, N. C. (light-heavyweights).
FOUR ROUNDS.
Billy Hoe, Washington, vs. Soldier Clark, Fort Washington (lightweights).
FOUR ROUNDS.
K. O. Riley, Washington, vs. Whitey Sailor, Birmingham, Ala. (middleweights).

ONE of the most closely contested fistic battles of the year in this vicinity looms tonight in the Joe Smallwood - Harry "Kid" Grove eight-round feature bout at Fort Washington. The program lists 32 rounds of milling, with an eight-round semifinal and four four-rounders supporting the main scramble. Action begins at 8:30 o'clock.

With victory carrying the somewhat synthetic title of District welterweight champion, both boys, who are willing and rugged, are expected to start banging away from the opening bell. As the distance they must travel is comparatively short, both should be able to maintain a fast pace.

Smallwood Favored To Win.

Smallwood, who has been getting more action of late than his opponent, is favored to win. Little wagering has been reported. At fight time Grove may be an even-money choice if it is confirmed that he is in the best of physical condition.

A knockout by Smallwood is not to be anticipated in spite of Grove's long lay-off. Grove has not fought since last April and has had but three fights since 1928. Under the management of the wily Patsy Donovan, however, Grove has been training strenuously during the past two weeks. As an incentive he has an opportunity here to climb back into popularity with the attendant offers for work that come with success.

Smallwood probably is the faster and his speed may gain him the decision. Grove will have a real job landing solidly on him if Joe decides to fight at long range. But if Smallwood chooses to stand up and wallop, The Kid may give him more than he can withstand.

Another close tussle is looked for in the bout between Sailor McKenna, stable-mate of Grove, and Andy Kelly, of Baltimore. McKenna is anxious to square accounts for a beating administered by Kelly the last time they met. The Baltimore lightweight is ranked among the best 135 pounders hereabout and probably will be the favorite tonight However, McKenna proved he was in tip-top form three weeks ago when he outpointed the hard-punching Clarence Sloat, of Baltimore.

Irving-Vance Promise Slugfest.

Plenty of old-fashioned socking should develop in the quartet of preliminaries. Both Henry Irving and Frankie Vance, the light-heavies who had the crowd in an uproar with a slugfest last Monday, will appear again. Irving is down for a bout with Fighting Dick, of Charlotte, N. C., while Vance is to face W. L. Tucker, former amateur heavyweight star. Indications are that Irving and Vance will be returned the winners.

"Knockout" Riley, who has returned from a tour with a carnival as meet-all-comers exponent, is listed in a four-round go with Whitey Sailor, of Birmingham, Ala. Both are middleweights and aggressive.

Billy Hoe, of the Mohawk Club, will try out his more or less undeveloped style in another four-rounder with Soldier Clark, popular Fort Washington lightweight.

Fans desiring to make the trip by water are offered free transportation on a government boat which departs from Washington Barracks wharf at 7 o'clock. Tickets may be procured until 6 p. m. at Cornell's Lunch and Vic's Sport Shop, and thereafter at the fort box office.

FIGHTS TONIGHT

JOE SMALLWOOD,

BROWN WINS DUEL FROM HERRING, 2-1

the others for the Nationals, with the alien bingles credited to Walker, Gehringer, Owen and Graboswki. Cronin, Manush, Kuhel and Bluege contributed sensational fielding plays for the Nationals, with McManus and Walker making the Tiger fielding gems. Neither of the two alien errors hurt the visitors.

West opened the game for the home team with a single to center, and Manush, who was particularly helpless at the bat, immediately hit into the only double-play of the game. With one dead in the second, Kuhel walked and later stole, but he was left and the Nats did not do any more threatening until the fifth, when they scored twice, and were quite harmless after that.

Three Hits in a Row Win For Nats.

One was dead in round 5 when Hayes came through with the second Washington hit of the day. Spencer then singled him to third and Brown was given a chance to help along his cause. He looked far from impressive while taking two strikes, but then met one full in the face for a drive to center, and the Nats were 1 up, with Spencer on third. The latter tallied and Brown advanced on West's useful out, a slow roller to Gehringer over toward first, and Herring stopped the advance by forcing Manush to pop to the second baseman.

In the very next frame Cronin gave the Harrismen their only scoring chance when he let Johnson's roller scoot through his legs for a two-base error. The latter took third on Walker's grounder to Kuhel and tallied on Gehringer's one-base drive to center. Here Brown put on the brakes, forcing McManus to loft to Manush and Doljack to hoist to Hayes.

This was the Tigers' last chance, for Brown continued bearing down until the end, and the only other visitor to see base life was Graboswki, who singled to center with two dead in the eighth. He died on first, but it took a good stop by Kuhel of Herring's hopper to bring this about.

Reds Defeat Phillies, 7-6; Then Lose, 7-1

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 19 A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia divided honors here today in splitting a double-header, the Reds winning the first 7 to 6 with a four-run ninth-inning rally, and the Phillies taking the second game, 7 to 1, after pounding two Red pitchers for thirteen hits. The Reds won the series, 2 to 1.

Stanford University, Calif., July 18 (A.P.).—Northwestern's football team will come west October 8, 1932, to play Glenn Warner's Stanford eleven in the first of a two-game series. The Evanston school will be host to the Indians October 14, 1933.

Mate Has Chance to Pass Gallant Fox in Earnings

Arlington Classic Victory Makes Bostwick Horse Ninth Among Money-Winners; Can Take Lead With 3 More Stake Wins.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO July 19 (A.P.).—A new name appears today among the twelve biggest money winners in the history of the American turf. The newcomer is Mate, that fast and game three-year-old which conquered Twenty Grand in the Arlington Classic yesterday, earning $73,650 as his share of the $86,000 purse. This boosted his winnings for 1931 to $173,650 and his total winnings as both a 2-year-old and 3-year-old to $232,775. Previous to winning the Classic, Mate captured the Preakness and American Derby, both $50,000 events, and landed third money in the Kentucky Derby.

Mate now stands ninth in the all-time list of American money winners, ranking just below Man o' War. He can easily move up to third or fourth place before the 1931 season is over without meeting older horses, provided Twenty Grand does not block his path.

Has Chance to Supplant Gallant Fox.

The Classic winner still has five rich stake events before him and, should he win three of these, he has a chance to supplant Gallant Fox as the biggest money winner in the history of America. Gallant Fox won $328,165.

Traveling aboard the same train, Mate and Twenty Grand left the Arlington Park race course today bound for Saratoga where they may meet again next month in the Travers Midsummer Derby. Horsemen expressed the opinion that Twenty Grand came out of the race "badly tied," that his muscles had undergone contraction, and that he was a bit stiff in the legs. They say he is beginning to feel the effects of his long training siege, which began last February and that he should have a rest to be freshened up before the Travers is run.

Mate, with his young millionaire owner, Albert C. Bostwick, supervising the job, looked every inch a champion as he walked into his car for the journey East. Bostwick said his courageous three-year-old came out of the race in perfect condition.

Owner Slept Near Stall Of Mate.

It was learned today that Bostwick took no chances on his horse not getting a good night's sleep before the running of the world's richest three year old race. Bostwick slept just outside Mate's stall in his automobile, his head drooping over the wheel. He slept there again last night, supremely happy that his horse had triumphed over Twenty Grand, before yesterday's race the most talked of horse in America.

Mate is entered in the $25,000 added Hawthorne Handicap to be decided August 8 in Chicago, but Owner Bostwick may not bring him West for this engagement. The distance of the handicap this year has been increased from a mile and one sixteenth to one mile and one eighth. Gallant Fox also is among the entries.

ROBINS AGAIN STOP CUBS, 10 TO 6

Four Chicago Boxmen Clouted as Brooklyn Wins 2nd in Row.

CHICAGO, July 19 (A.P.).—Four Chicago pitchers were ineffective this afternoon as Brooklyn made it two in a row by the score of 10 to 6. Eight runs were scored by the Robins in the sixth and seventh to give Thurston an easy victory.

Teachout started for Chicago, but was hit hard and gave way to Bush, who was hit for five straight safeties before Warneke could rescue him. Blake finished the game.

Cards Beat Giants Twice by 2-1 Score

St. Louis, July 19 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals won both ends of a cqucial double-header from the New York giants today to increase their leadership in the National League to five and one-half games.

Gabby Street's 1930 pennant winners took both contests by 2 to 1 scores when defeats would have cut their margin of leadership to two and one-half games.

Sylvester Johnson and Carl Hubbell staged a brilliant hurling duel in the opener, but the Giants' southpaw lost although he allowed only four hits to Johnson's eight. The Cardinals scored both of their runs in the fourth inning on Roettger's single, Hafey's triple and Martin's double. Mel Ott's home run in the fourth accounted for the only New York tally.

The second game was another pitching duel, with Paul Derringer besting John Berly. Both pitched shutout ball until the ninth. In that inning the Giants tallied once, but the Cardinals came back to push two runs over the plate.

YANKS POUND BROWNS FOR 2 WINS

Gehrig Hits 2 Homers in Double Victory, 10-9 and 8-2.

NEW YORK, July 19 (A.P.).—The Yankees trounced the Browns in both ends of the Sunday double-header by scores of 10 to 9 and 8 to 2.

In the nightcap Gomez held the Browns to seven hits, while his mates pounded out ten. Lou Gehrig hit his twenty-eighth homer, while Chapman hit one and stole two bases to bring his theft total to 36.

In the opener the Yanks managed to squeeze out a close one, due to Lou Gehrig's timely swatting. He drove in seven runs, cleaning the bases with a triple, and hitting his twenty-seventh homer with two on, also driving in what proved to be the winning run with a single in the eighth. The Browns gave the Yanks quite a scare in the ninth when they scored three runs with two out, Bengough being out at the plate trying to stretch his triple into a homer. The Browns knocked out Weaver in the fourth, but Johnson held them till he blew up in the eighth, and Pipgras finished. The Yankees sent Hebert and Stiles away early and Kimsey finished.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

M. LEBON started his sensational streak of winnings in a Nice casino by purchasing a 1,000 franc counter and putting it down on number 17. On the first spin, number 17 came up, Lebon winning 35,000 francs. On the next play he put his right hand to his forehead to signify he wished to leave the chips on number 17. On the next round of the wheel number 17 again won. Lebon never moved, nor did he remove his hand from his head. Again and again his number won, until the lone 1,000 franc counter represented 500,000!

A woman seated beside Lebon, surprised at the stolid manner in which he accepted his winnings, could restrain herself no longer, and grabbed the man by the arm. To her horror his body slumped limply over the table. He was dead. Immediately after his first win, after placing his hand to his head, he had passed away, a victim of heart failure.

TAKOMA TIGERS CLINCH CROWN OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY

Chevy Chase Is Beaten Twice

Grays Bow in Double-Headers by 6-2, 6-3 Scores.

First Game 13-Inning Tussle; 3d Title for Tigers.

THE Takoma Tigers won the championship of the Montgomery County Section of The Post's Capital City League for the third consecutive year by downing Chevy Chase in both ends of a double header on the latter's field yesterday by the scores of 6-2 and 6-3. The first game required thirteen innings before the champions finally won.

Ray Davidson started on the mound for the Tigers in the first encounter, but he found the going too rough midway in the fray and was relieved by Ed Marosey who held the Grays safe over the remainder of the route. "Lefty" Stevens, starting hurler for Chevy Chase lasted until the thirteenth, when relieved by Ray Knight. Stevens pitched a beautiful game and was deserving of a better fate. Some long distance clouting by Milburn and James in the final thirteenth turned the tide in Takoma's favor.

Tigers Take Early Lead In Second.

Ray Knight essayed the task of stopping the champs in the nightcap, but the latter assumed an early lead and were never headed. Milburn, who twirled for Takoma held his opponents at bay throughout the game.

Chevy Chase was handicapped by the loss of two regular outfielders, one of whom was Dick Knight, premier slugger of the team. The victory advances Takoma to the finals for the Metropolitan championship of the Capital City League. The Dixie Pigs and Saks Clothiers meet in the first game of the titular series next Sunday.

Star Boat Regatta Postponed a Week

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., July 19.—The annual regetta of the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club of Easton and the sailing race of the star boats for the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy, which was to take place Saturday and today on Miles River and Easton Bay, off Clairborne, has been postponed until next Saturday and Sunday, owing to the sudden death Saturday morning of J. Rulon Miller, jr., of the Gibson Island Yacht Club, whose boat was entered in the race. He won the trophy, which is a perpetual one to be sailed for every year, in 1926 with The Shark.

On Saturday night the club entertained the visiting yachtsmen, officers of the Coast Guard cutter Apache at a buffet supper at their clubhouse in Easton. For the first time many ladies were present. After luncheon there was a match race between four star boats. Two were owned by J. Rascob, jr., of the Chester Vierl Yacht Club, one by Dr. C. Matthews, of Clairborne, of the Miles River Yacht Club, and The Eel, owned by R. Hammond Gibson, of the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club, of Easton. The race was over a course of 7 miles and was won by The Eel, who was the winner of the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy in 1929.

Three Easton Homers Defeat Preston, 5 to 4

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., July 19.—A large crowd saw Easton defeat the Preston team today at Federal Park in a close and exciting see-saw game by a score of 5 to 4. Morrison pitched fine ball for the home team and was given excellent support both in the field and at bat. Dulin pitched good ball for the visitors and was relieved in the eighth inning by Koeber.

In the first inning, Cohn, for Easton, hit a home run drive over left field fence with one on base, scoring two runs. This was repeated in the fifth inning by Christopher, with one on base, and in the eighth Wheadelton came through with a home run over left field fence winning the game, as Morrison blanked the visitors in their half of the ninth.

DEL RAY TOSSERS COP.

Pushing across a run in the eighth inning, the Del Ray A. C. defeated the Griffith-Blue Coal team of Washington by a score of 2-1 on Edward Duncan Field today. The final score was 2-1. "Kitty" Curtiss, Del Ray ace, and Lanham, of the Griffs, staged a pretty mound duel, but the visiting hurler lost the decision when Beach and Curtis singled in succession in the eighth.

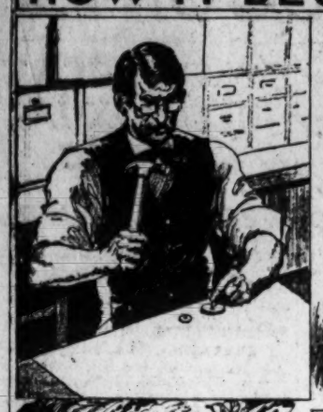
HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennesky



NAIL TO THE COUNTER

FORMERLY WHEN A STOREKEEPER TOOK IN A COUNTERFEIT COIN HE NAILED IT TO HIS COUNTER TO USE AS A COMPARISON WITH OTHER SUSPICIOUS COINS; THIS PRACTICE GAVE US THE EXPRESSION TO USE IN EXPOSING A LIE OR ANYTHING FALSE.

KNIFE AND FORK ON PLATE

AT OLD-TIME DINNERS THE HOSTESS HEAPED EACH GUEST'S PLATE FULL OF FOOD, AND GUESTS WERE OBLIGED TO PLACE THEIR KNIVES AND FORKS ON THEIR PLATES TO INDICATE THAT THEY HAD ENOUGH. WE STILL FOLLOW THE PRACTICE.

FIRE INSURANCE

AFTER THE GREAT LONDON FIRE OF 1001, PEOPLE WERE RELUCTANT TO REBUILD HOMES BECAUSE THEY FEARED ANOTHER LOSS BY FIRE. FINALLY A MEMBER OF THE COUNCIL, MR. DEPUTY NEWBOLD, AND VARIOUS PRIVATE CITIZENS, ADVERTISED IN 1681 AN OFFER TO INSURE BRICK HOUSES FOR 6 PENCE AND TIMBER HOUSES FOR 12 PENCE ON THE POUND.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A CHANCE FOR THE ELDERLY.

SEVERAL years ago somewhat careful estimates indicated that the average age at death was 58, and that it would be 60 by this year. With this as what is commonly called the average span of life there must be a very large number of people living at ages beyond 70, in order that there be some compensation for the many deaths of babies and young people generally.

Dr. A. Epstein is quoted as saying that in the States there are over five and a half million people who are beyond 65 years of age, and that the number of old people now living in all the States is in excess of the total population at the time of the Revolution. There are 2,000,000 between 65 and 70, a million and a half between 70 and 75, a million between 75 and 80 and three-quarters of a million over 80. Of these old people, 2,000,000 are dependent and cared for in public and private institutions at a yearly cost of half a billion dollars. If the present trend continues for a quarter of a century, as it probably will, the numbers will be increased much out of proportion to the increase in population, and the cost of care of dependent aged will be much higher than a billion dollars yearly.

In certain regions, for instance, upper New England and parts of the South, the proportion of the aged in the total population dominates more than one phase of life.

The cost of care, when added to the cost of care of the mentally sick, probably exceeds that of maintenance of the Federal Government, and exceeds the cost of most other forms of government after elimination of the costs of schools.

The official age at which employability ceases in several arms of the Government is around 65. Few businesses will continue the employment of persons much beyond that age. None will take on new employes of that age. The tendency of old-fashioned homes to disappear adds greatly to the problem. The situation is a grave one, and, plainly, it will be a threat to every one within a few years. And what are we doing about it?

There are several pension systems of one sort and another, and a considerable number of homes. These care for incapacity attendant on old age. A much more important question is, What is being done by way of preventing poverty, incapacity and discomfort among old people?

The Federal Government has a safety bank department for the encouragement of thrift. Possibly a few other efforts at prevention could be cited. However, the list would be a short one. There is need for a systematized plan to readjust jobs so that the elderly could make their own living doing work for which they are fitted. Physicians need to know about cancer, heart disease, Bright's disease, cataract, glaucoma, deafness and the other diseases of old age. They need to know how to prevent them as well as how to cure them. They need to know more than they do about methods of maintaining comfort as well as efficiency among the aged.

PAINFUL KNEES.

Mrs. G. E. K. writes: My boy has bunches on both legs. They look like another knee, and at times are very sensitive. Some one told us that it is "Osgood (Boston) and Schlatter's (Germany) disease," and invariably cures itself.

REPLY.

This is a low grade inflammation of pouches of the sac of the knee joint with accumulation of fluid. It is a cousin to housemaid's knee.

Temporary rest of the joint is about the only treatment required.

PRICKLY HEAT.

G. W. K. writes: Is prickly heat a skin or a blood disorder? What can be done to prevent its coming or cause its removal?

REPLY.

It is a skin disease and in no way related to the blood. The principal cause of the difficulty is prolonged soaking of the skin with sweat-soaked garments. Prompt removal of the sweaty garments as a rule prevents or cures it. Going without clothing is more effective, but impossible for an adult in your city. Dusting with a good drying powder helps.

Code Is Announced On Mine Governing

Russell Sage Foundation Cites Overproduction as Dispute Cause.

New York, July 19 (A.P.).—The Russell Sage Foundation today issued a code governing wage disputes and mine management in coal regions.

The code is part of a survey of mine labor problems the foundation will publish in the fall. It was drawn up in the "hope that it will help clarify understanding of the causes of coal strikes and therby hasten settlement of the present strikes and reduce their frequency in this basic industry."

Overproduction and wasteful use of coal which lead to conflict over wages between operator and miner are given as the chief causes of disturbances.

In part, the code provides that mine employes laid off because of reductions in the working force must be reinstated when the management increases its force, and that miners are entitled to extra compensation for any extra duties they may be asked to perform.

ARMY FLIER ROBBED BY 2 MEN GIVEN RIDE

Strangers Take $85 After Drink Believed to Be Poison.

Antonio F. Duarte, 31 years old, an Army aviator, who is in Washington for his forty-third operation at Walter Reed Hospital, was drugged and robbed of $85 by two strangers, to whom he gave a lift yesterday in his automobile.

Duarte was found in an unconscious condition in his car by Park Policeman J. H. Compton. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where doctors said they found evidence of poison in his stomach.

The Army aviator was driving south on Fourteenth street, when he was signaled by two men who asked him for a ride. Duarte offered to drive them to the vicinity of 1224 Pennsylvania avenue, where he is staying.

Near Fourteenth and H streets they offered him a drink from a ginger ale bottle. That is all Duarte remembers until found at Twelfth street and Constitution avenue. When he awoke $85 was missing from his pocket.

Duarte was badly burned in 1924 when his plane was struck by lightning as he was about to land it at Kelly Field, Tex. Since then he has undergone 42 skin-grafting operations, with another scheduled for today. He lives in Jacksonville, Fla.

Police Asked to Find Girl.

Capital police were asked yesterday to locate Frances Farley, 16, of Newark, N. J., who has been missing from the New Jersey city since Saturday. The girl described as of slender build, blue eyes and having brown bobbed hair, is believed to have come to Washington. A brother, Leo Farley, lives at 1619 Seventeenth street northwest.

Tailor Robbed Fourth Time.

Tailor shop of James Speropulos, 506 G street northwest, was broken into early yesterday for the fourth time in the last two weeks and $10.26 in cash and a quantity of clothing was stolen. Entrance was gained by removing a screen from a rear window, Speropulos told police.

Woman Hurt by Foul Ball.

A foul tip from a baseball bat struck Mrs. Lucille Aleshire, 25 years old, of 5510 Ninth street northwest, while she was witnessing a baseball game at the Ellipse yesterday. She was treated at Emergency Hospital for injuries to the forehead. Her injuries are not serious.

Masonic Ceremonies Mark Royal Arch Day

Rev. J. C. Palmer Speaks on Hope at Meeting at Treaty Oak.

Gathering within the shadow of treaty oak on Temple Heights, Masons of the District celebrated Royal Arch day yesterday afternoon and heard a sermon on hope by the Rev. John C. Palmer, pastor of Washington Heights Presbyterian Church and grand chaplain of Masonry in the District.

A picturesque feature of the service was baptism of a 2-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Humphrey, Richard Leonard MacKey. A silver baptism bowl for the occasion was presented on behalf of Harmony Lodge by Carl H. Claudy, senior warden of the lodge. The service was opened with an eloquent prayer from Charles E. Fultz, assistant grand chaplain of District masons.

Lodges taking an active part in the service besides Harmony were Warren G. Harding, No. 39; Brightwood, No. 43; Mizpah, No. 8; Warren G. Harding, No. 31; Brightwood, No. 17, and Ruth, No. 1. Members of the Order of Eastern Star were special guests.

Music was given by the following members of the choir of Lutheran Place Memorial Church: Mrs. B. H. Smart, Mrs. Marie S. Head, Raymond S. Fellus and J. Walter Humphrey, with Mrs. Clarence Hammerness at the piano.

Dr. Palmer emphasized futility of hope without anchorage with the infinite. He declared that such a need is more apparent in the world today because there is much drifting, especially on the part of youth. "The only hope that is sure and steadfast," he asserted, "is that within the veil."

As an illustration of the impermanency of hope, without anchorage to God, Dr. Palmer referred to the depression of the last three years, when, he declared, man has gone unrewarded for his toil. He referred in particular to the case of Ernest Beelitz, the Pennsylvania farmer, who lost all his savings in the demise of the firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey and who appealed to local authorities to send him to jail so he could have food and shelter.

"Although none of us has actually seen or touched God it is possible to get in touch with him," Dr. Palmer told the Masons. "Remember His words: 'Call upon Me and I will answer thee.'"

The gathering stood in prayer for several minutes on behalf of the Rev. Homer J. Councilor, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church and a prominent Mason, who is seriously ill in a local hospital following an operation.

GOULD SEEKS PROFIT IN BRETON SEAWEED

First Iodine Swimming Pool in World Now Being Built on Coast.

Paris, July 19 (U.P.).—Frank Jay Gould, scion of America's multi-millionaire family, having made money out of Pyrenees dairy herds, chocolate, print paper, real estate developments, hotels along the golden sands of the French Riviera and from the green top tables where baccarat shoes clog gaily day and night, has now turned to seaweed to further bolster his fortune.

Simple, unadulterated seaweed, the kind that winds around your neck when you dive too deep, hitherto allowed to rot along the beaches, will be converted into gold dust, theoretically, by the Gould process.

The waters along the Brittany coast, where Gould owns a respectable number of seafront acres, abound with seaweed of a certain quality which is called by the sturdy Bretons, "goemon."

This sea-wrack when burned and treated by a special process furnishes iodine. It can also be treated to make a very tasty cow food. It can also undergo a certain drying process and become the finest kind of fertilizer for the worn-out lands upon which vines grow. Sea-wrack is said to give an iodine flavor to certain wines.

All those processes will be used by Gould in making his gold from seaweed, and in addition, in view of the medical qualities of the iodine-producing weed, Gould plans to build the first iodine swimming pool in the world for persons needing such medical treatment.

At Granville, in Brittany, he is building a great pool along the ocean which will be filled half-and-half with seaweed and sea-water.

1,600 Live Stock Brands Are Listed in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz., July 19 (U.P.).—A lot of the Old West is still hanging around in Arizona, it was disclosed here when a new recording of live-stock brands law became effective. Sixteen hundred brands, recorded ten years ago, must be recorded again before the first of the year at a fee cost of $2 each.

1,300-Year-Old Tree Is Felled in Louisiana

New Orleans, July 19 (U.P.).—A giant cypress tree, said to be 1,300 years old, has just been cut in the Amite River marsh by the Lyon Lumber Co. of Garyville.

The tree, containing 16,175 board feet, was found to be sound. The diameter was 92 inches. It will make more than a carload of lumber.

BRAINLESS BEAUTIES VIEWED AS MENACES

Missouri Freshmen Outline Observations on Life in Examination.

Columbia, Mo., July 19 (U.P.).—Twins are of two kinds, "fraternity and duplicate," and feminism is "the root of all marriages," according to the answers to examination questions given freshmen students in Dean Albert K. Hockel's orientation course at the University of Missouri.

Among the other sociological theories revealed by the freshmen was one that "one of the best solutions for divorce would be the stopping of midnight marriages," and "women are no longer considered weak, vile, fickle creatures."

Additional observations included:

A woman who wins an argument from her husband loses him.

Don't let some one thrill you to the extent of marriage because they are handsome or grand dancers, but let their family tree have something to do with it.

A girl with sex appeal and no brains can cause more hell than an army.

A man who is cruel to his wife and children should be put in a cage for future generations to look at.

Many a woman interested in art or poetry finds herself tied to a man whose idea of art is a fried egg.

When the husband sees his wife talking to the milkman he thinks the milkman is flirting with his wife, when she is really talking to him about business.

Although it is a wise child who knows his father these days, one ought to find out what type of people they were.

Victims Are Identified By Robbery Suspects

Detroit, July 19 (U.P.).—Bandit suspects paraded before holdup victims in the police headquarters' showup room were usually identified by the victims, until two Niagara Falls, N. Y., youths recently reversed the procedure.

"That's the guy we took a watch and eight bucks from," chorused suspects Dan Collips, 19, and Fausto De Lorenzo, 20, before any of the victims had an opportunity to point out the youths.

Medieval Robes Swathe Ohio Baby at Baptism

Canton, Ohio, July 19 (U.P.).—Medieval robes of satin and gold swathed little Agnes Elizabeth Brahm when she was baptized here.

The robes, believed to be over 400 years old, were found in a secret drawer of a chest purchased by Mrs. Paul Brahm in Germany several years ago.

VICKI BAUM TRAINS LIKE PRIZE-FIGHTER

German Woman Writer Puts Herself Through Stiff Daily Beginner.

New York, July 19 (U.P.).—Ambitious women writers who need the drive and stamina for a large output of important literary work will do well to take a page from the book of Vicki Baum, German playwright and author, who is in America fulfilling a contract to write talking picture plays.

The secret of her success in carrying out a strenuous program of literary production lies in keeping fit. She trains for her work much as a boxer does for an important fight.

Boxing is one of her chief exercises. She has a special diet much along the lines of an athlete, and does not drink coffee or stimulating beverages.

The playwright at home is up at 6:30 a. m. and takes a swim in the lake and a session of rope skipping before breakfast. She gets her two young sons ready for school, then drives from her villa to her office in Berlin, where she is editor of a woman's magazine. She writes articles, edits material and attends to business affairs until 3 p. m., when she drives home.

Then she goes through 15 minutes of boxing with her trainer and several sets of tennis, after which she works in her garden. Usually she devotes the evening to writing articles, books and plays. She retires at about midnight. A woman of small stature, Miss Baum is always full of drive and vigor, despite her strenuous program.

Horse Travel De Luxe Provided by Sweden

Stockholm, July 19 (U.P.).—Swedish race horses travel in style when they are transported from one track to another. Upon the suggestion of Count Clarence von Rosen, one of Sweden's foremost riders, the Swedish state railways have constructed a de luxe coach, capable of carrying six horses. It has padded walls and ceiling and is light and heated electrically.

Hose Dislodges Bees; Firemen Have Battle

Newport, R. I., July 19 (U.P.).—Firemen fighting a fire at the Good Will Cleaning plant had to fight for their own protection when a hose stream dislodged a swarm of bees under the roof. The bees attacked the firemen and were dispersed only when the hose was turned on them.

MASS PLANNED HERE FOR ITALIAN LEADER

Requiem Service to Be Held for First Cousin of King Emmanuel.

A requiem mass, in memory of the late Duce Di Aosta, of the House of Savoy, leader of Italian forces during the World War who died July 4, will be celebrated at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at Holy Rosary Church, Third and F streets northwest.

The duce, first cousin of his majesty, Victor Emanuel, King of Italy, was buried among 30,000 of his men on the battlefield of the Piave in northern Italy, where he directed victory over invading Austrians. The king, members of his cabinet and others of the royal family were present at the funeral.

The mass, sponsored by the Italian societies of Washington, will be said by the Rev. N. De Carlo, pastor of the Holy Rosary Church. The papal delegate Mgr. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi has been invited to the ceremony. The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, and his staff will be among those present.

An invitation has been extended by Dr. R. N. Manganaro, chairman of arrangements, to Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, and to representatives of the American Legion.

War Veteran Group Names Capital Man

Major DuBois Secretary of Third Division's Organization.

Maj. George G. DuBois, of Washington, was elected secretary of the Society of the Third Division at annual dinner of the society in New York recently. The meeting celebrated the thirteenth anniversary of the second battle of the Marne, in which the division took a prominent part.

Plans were formulated for collection of funds for a memorial to be placed in Washington for members of the division who died in service. Maj. Gen. Fred W. Salden, commander of the Third Corps Area, will act as chairman of the memorial committee.

The society adopted a resolution urging enforcement of the veterans' preference rule in Civil Service Commission appointments, but rejected a resolution which would have commended Presdent Hoover for his war debt suspension plan.

Washington Students At Boston University

Eight students from Washington are taking summer courses at Boston University this year, which has one of the largest registration in recent years, 1,335 being enrolled for the six-week session.

Washington students attending are Mary P. Burrill, 1256 Kearney street northeast; Suzanne A. Holton, 409 Third street northeast; Martha W. Scott, 1119 Montello avenue northeast; Lily and Lucy Swanson, 1464 Belmont street northwest; Gertrude L. Watkins, 1725 S street northwest; Mabel S. Wood, 301 G street southeast, and Gilbert S. MacVaugh.

Gospel Mission School Ends Summer Session

Commencement exercises of the Gospel Mission Summer Bible School were held for a class of 70 pupils recently at the Mission Chapel. The school had been in session a month and students were from the Mission Sunday school and the Children's Home.

Four Bibles were presented to junior members for perfect attendance at the session and four religious tsory books were given to kindergarten members. Miss Florence Slacer, of the Lucy Webb Hayes National training School, was in charge of the school.

OPPOSITION INNING DUE IN RAIL CASE

Last of Carriers' Witnesses for Increase to Take Stand Today.

(Associated Press.)

Evidence in opposition to the railroads' proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates will be marshalled this week before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Representatives of long and short haul lines will be heard today. They are expected to be the last of the carriers' witnesses who have inserted a mass of statements and statistics into the records in contending the increase was necessary.

When the railroads' case is completed Commissioner Meyer will summon "neutral" and any opposition spokesmen who are ready to testify. Hearings are expected to continue all this week.

It was planned originally to hear the principal opposition argument beginning August 31. Shippers in the meantime would prepare their case on the basis of testimony already adduced.

Whether an adjournment until August 31 will be taken is undecided. The railroads have indicated they would attempt to have the hearings continue unbroken until all facts have been presented. Granville Clark, of New York, said it was felt quick action was needed. Meyer, however, said the commission was ready to rule on it.

The presidents of three railroads told the commission last week carriers had been plunged into a financial crisis through dwindling revenues and their capital structures were threatened, with possibly grave effects on the national situation.

They were H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee; J. J. Pelley, of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, and W. R. Cole, of the Louisville & Nashville.

Fairman R. Dick, New York investment expert, testified billions of dollars worth of railroad securities must be wiped off the legal list of approved investments for insurance companies and savings banks unless earnings increase.

H. A. Austin Rites To Be Held Today

Former Journalist Dead at 56 Years, Following Long Illness.

Funeral service for Harry Albert Austin, secretary-treasurer of the United States Beet Sugar Association, will be held at the Speare undertaking chapel, 1623 Connecticut avenue, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Austin, who was 56, succumbed after an illness of several months following an operation. The Rev. Alfred Barrows, pastor of Eastern Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

A native of Washington, Mr. Austin went to Nebraska in 1893 and became identified with the politics of that State. He returned as secretary to the late Senator William V. Allen. Afterward he was Washington correspondent for the Omaha World-Herald. As a civilian attached to the Army War College, he wrote articles published by the Forum and Harper's Weekly.

Surviving are his widow, Pauline Rearick Austin; two sons, Bliss and Edwin; two brothers, Fred and Joseph Austin, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Spear. Mr. Austin's home was at 1707 Hobart street northwest. He was a member of the National Press Club and the Columbia Historical Society.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

YES, WE HAVE NO PAJAMAS.

BUSINESS has turned the corner in a big way in one industry—the pajama trade. It is a pajama summer. The one regret of the big steel, electric and similar corporations is that they did not manufacture them during the dull winter.

• • • •

Accepting pajamas at first as a beach novelty the women of America are now wearing nothing else at vacation resorts.

• • • •

They climb into them in the morning and keep them on all day. The streets of a summer resort have the same general appearance at high noon as the corridors of the Y. W. C. A. and Martha Washington Hotel have at 7 a. m.

• • • •

THE country seems to have gone pajama crazy. Not so many years ago a woman who appeared at a window in them was thought a hopeless hussie. The police almost closed a musical show once because Pauline Chase had a chorus in pajamas. They were not for male eyes. This summer the police would only be moved to action if they saw a woman on the streets in street clothes.

• • • •

It all comes under the head of progress. Yesterday's scandal is today's anesthetic.

• • • •

Still, there oughta be a law. The young and shapely ones look very chic and charming in them, but pajamas are no bargain on the middle-aged ones whose figures are done full justice only when covered by a Navajo blanket.

• • • •

There comes a time in every woman's life when she should look those new summer fads in the eye and tell them to go to the devil.

• • • •

GRANDMOTHERS should be particularly wary of this pajama craze. When they shuffle through town in night clothes somebody is apt to slip a kerosene lamp in their hands reprovingly and tell them to go straight to bed before they catch their death of asthma.

Pajamas are for all ages indoors, but they belong to youth on the street.

• • • •

Man's first glance around any summer resort this season gives him the impression he has stumbled into a nudist cult. When he reaches the bathing beach he knows he has.

• • • •

All in all, it's a dangerous trend. Who knows but what our men may go in for scanty attire any moment and dash about from business conference to business conference in nightgowns and slippers?

• • • •

TRAFFIC TRAGEDIES.

Beyond all cares
Is Lyman Law;
He didn't see
The open draw.

• • • •

Is Luther Hare;
He beat the light—
A cop was there!

• • • •

MR. PAUL ("Lega") Barnett, glorifier of athletics at Yale, made a hole in one the other day. The big surprise to Mr. Barnett, it is reliably reported, was not that his ball had landed in the cup in one stroke, but that it had landed on the green in less than eight.

• • • •

"Legs" Diamond, apparently invulnerable to bullets and courts, has been freed again, this time despite positive identification by a farmer who says "Legs" burned his feet. The jury evidently concluded that the farmer's sufferings were due to Athlete's Foot.

• • • •

Stalin has decided to give the trained minds in Russia a chance. In other words, Russia has abandoned the policy of bean dumping.
